Defense Prodding Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a critic of the Vietnam war, says some senators from states with big defense industries are feeling the prod to support the war, but he does not pinpoint who is doing the prodding.

"I don't say they don't believe what they're saying" about the war, Aiken said in an interview. "But some of our boys are under pressure." He did not elaborate.

Two other war critics said Thursday in separate statements that a "military - industrial complex" was dominant in U.S. affairs.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in Senate debate on the billion -dollar programs for space and development of a supersonic transport that a "large military-industrial complex" dominates Congress.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., like Fulbright and Aiken a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, urged Senate conferees to stand firm on cutbacks in U.S. military aid programs, saying: "All we in the Senate are trying to do is put some kind of limit on the power of the military-industrial complex to control the foreign policy of this nation."

Aiken said the recent flurry of war debate in the Senate is "just good politics."

"It's not only getting close to the election but close to campaign contribution time," he said. "States like California and Washington depend on the war industry. I think they prefer to call it defense procurement for a good portion of their economy."

He noted that California Republican Sens. George Murphy and Thomas H. Kuchel, and

Loeb, Ingram Enter Memphis Mayor Runoff

MEMPHIS, Tenn (AP) - A. W. Willis, Tennesse's first Negro state legislator in more than half a centruy, couldn't put together a winning coalition Thursday and failed in a bid to become the first Negro mayor of a majoy Old South city.

Two men with experience in the job - incumbent Mayor William Ingram and former Mayor Henry Loeb-made it into the Nov. 2 runoff as Willis trailed fourth in his race against six white candidates.

The final vote in the fairly heavy balloting - attributed to Willis' presence in the race - gave Loeb 47,784 votes to 36,-074 for Ingram and 30,979 for Shelby County Sheriff William Morris. Willis had 15,575.

A total of 155,270 white voters and 80,033 Negroes were registered for the election.

Willis, twice elected to the state House of Representatives, had been conceded the majority of the Negro vote when the campaign started.

But the final tally showed he failed to hold the Negro vote and was unable to make serious inroads into the traditionally white voting structure.

In a statement conceding defeat, Willis said he was disappointed at the result but added that it could be expected because of "100 years of brainwashing."

Willis said, however, he thought the race had raised questions "which will have to be answered later."

Ingram was the main beneficiary of the Negro vote which swung away from Willis, an attorney, civil rights leader and cofounder and president of a savings and loan association.

Loeb, who had resigned as mayor is the closing days of his term, led from the start in ballot counting Thursday night. He had been a member of the City Park Commission and the City Commission before he was elected mayor in 1959.

Ingram, an attorney, served five years as a city court judge before he was elected mayor in 1963.

Arab Position Outlined

UNITED NATIONS, NY.Y. (AP)— Lebanon told the United Nations today that a withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied positions could bring peaceful conditions "guaranteeing the renunciation of the use of force and the security of all states in the region." But it ruled out recognition of Israel or negotiations with it.

"The conditions are favorable for a peaceful settlement of the present crisis," Lebanese Foreign Minister Georges Hakim said in a policy speech to the 122-nation General Assembly.

"If peace is not achieved now, war will break out sooner or later. Time is not on the side of peace in the Middle East. The United Nations, either in the Security Council or in the General Assembly, must act now."

Last Monday Hakim told an Associated Press reporter that the Arab states had decided at their recent conference at Khartoum to "choose the peaceful solution rather than one leading to war sooner or later."

"This means," Hakim said, "that if Israeli troops were withdrawn to positions occupied June 5, the Arab States would renounce the use of force and agree to the establishment of peaceful conditions in which the security and territorial integrity of all states in the region would be respected."

This was more moderate than the statements that Arab foreign ministers have been making in the assembly's policy debate.

Motors Start Two Fires

Firemen were called to extinguish a fire started by the shorting of an electric motor in a grain dryer at 9:02 a.m. today at Scott County Milling Co., 410 West Malone.

Damage was minor and confined to the electric motor, Lee Austin Bowman, president, said.

Smouldering corn husks kept firemen working till about 10:30 a.m.

A short in a laundry dryer motor at Shuffit's Nursing Home No. 3, route three, Sikeston, at 11:30 p.m. Thursday caused smoke in the building. The fire department was called, but no fire resulted.

Mills Says Slash in Future Spending Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wants a curb on high-priced government programs in the future as well as an immediate spending cut, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills said today.

Mills, chairman of the House Wayns and Means Committee, said in a statement that is the meaning of his committee's 20-5 vote Tuesday to delay action on the tax increase measure. The committee decided to postpostpone action until the President and Congress reach an understanding on spending.

"It is clear that the point of the protest has been missed," the Arkansas Democrat said.

"Spending cuts in this fiscal year or in 1969, welcome as they would be, are not really the central objective."

Mills spoke out a day after President Johnson, at an impromptu news conference, renewed his insistence that Congress act on his request for a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate income taxes.

He disagreed with Congress' contention that he should first show firm plans for spending cuts.

Despite the President's plea and a federal freeze on Congress' pet public works project, Congress shows no signs of increasing taxes before spending is slashed.

Military spending has not been a target of the economy effort, but Defense Department officials put a freeze Thursday on some $3.5 billion worth of military building and civil public works programs.

Johnson insists a tax increase is needed to combat the threat of inflation, which he said could be more costly than the higher taxes themselves.

But Mills insisted on more meaningful budget cutting.

"All of us know, only too well," Mills said, "that the present budget contains programs that may have lost their justification, and that we are called upon to approve others and vote vast sums for their operation without having any information about what their current objectives are and how well they are performing them or are likely to in the future."

This year's expenditure budget could be trimmed, Mills argued, merely by slowing down disbursement under existing programs. This, though painful, would not be "really significant, because it requires no changes in the programs themselves," he said.

Mills renewed the argument he has often made that the federal government should be judging entire programs and deciding their relative importance, rather than trying to economize by trimming the budget across the board.

The administration added a new ingredient in the weeks-long test of wills between the President and Congress by suspending indefinitely some $3.5 billion worth of military building and civil public works programs.

The freeze, announced by the Defense Department, came as Johnson again laid responsibility for budget cutting on the congressional doorstep and said taxes should be raised to stifle inflation.

The public works freeze drew praise from Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, as "the kind of thing that's required."

To some congressional observers the freeze appeared an indication Johnson is beginning to yield to pressure that the take responsibility for cutting back or eliminating programs popular with hometown voters.

The stalemate over who should cut spending involves in part the determination by Congress not to be saddled with the blame for such cuts.

Byrnes cautioned, however, that the freeze could be lifted at any time since the money for such Army Engineers civil projects as flood-control dams, dikes and harbor improvements already has been appropriated.

"We'll need some assurances this isn't just window dressing," he said in an interview.

"Unless there is substantial cutting in spending programs, I don't see how we can justify a tax increase," said Mills.

Byrnes took a harder line. "The President apparently hasn't got the message. The committee and the House sent a very clear message that spending must be cut."

Byrnes said the President determines spending priorities in sending Congress the budget.

"We need a new schedule of spending priorities and he better send us one soon," he warned.

Johnson told a hastily called news conference Thursday that failure to enact his tax boost proposal would feed an inflationary spiral he said would ultimately cost taxpayers far more than higher taxes.

He cited increased interest rates on short-term Treasury bills and high home mortgage and personal loan interest rates as indications a tax hike is needed to block inflation.

Noting Congress has passed only 4 of 14 appropriations bills in the first nine months of the session, the President said the administration can't intelligently decide where to cut spending until it knows how much money Congress intends to provide.

Cotton Provisions To Be Set Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials said it's likely that Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will announce this week provisions of the government's cotton stabilization program for 1968.

The program will recommend an increase in cotton plantings over the very low level of 8.5 million acres to be harvested this year, when acreage was held down under a program offering growers substantial payments for restricting production at a time when surpluses existed.

This year's crop has been estimated at 8.17 million bales. A crop of around 13.7 million bales may be sought next year because surpluses have been disposed of.

Six Treated For Injuries

Six persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital Thursday:

Sterling, Sikeston, injured in car accident; Marcellus Struwe, Charleston, injured ankle and heel as he was leaving truck; Edward Eason, Sikeston, received injury to wrist when a crank on a tractor fell on him; Jessie Bonner, Jr., Sikeston, received fractured arm in a fall; Gerald Settles, Matthews, received multiple scratches in a motorcycle accident; and Ike Foster, Vanduser, received treatment for insect bite.

Police Arrest Two

Neil Wright, 855 Agnes, was charged with assault and battery at 3:35 p.m. Thursday on North Main.

Ike McCormick, route two, Sikeston, was charged at 9:30 p.m. Thursday with public intoxication on Sixth Street.

A prowler was reported Thursday night in the 100 block of Baker Lane. Police checked the area, but found no one.

More than two-thirds of Canada's estimated 18.5 million inhabitants live within 100 miles of the United States border.

Aerial Strikes Continue

SAIGON (AP) - U.S. pilots are taking advantage of good weather, to get in the heaviest blows they can at two key points where Communist war materiai enters North Vietnam - the port of Haiphong and railroad lines just below Red China, the U.S. Command said today.

Targets reported hit Thursday included a rail bridge 10 miles from China, a bridge leading out of Haiphong and a major fuel dump near the port. The raiders left a smoke column nearly two miles high at the dump, which had been on the Pentagon's restricted list and was hit for the first time.

It was the third straight day of strikes at rail links in the narrow valleys just south of China and the second of raids on bridges in Haiphong. Other targets included two more fuel dumps in the port area and the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac.

MIG 17s came up to challenge Navy planes striking Haiphong and at least one enemy plane was reported damaged in a brief dogfight. The U.S. Command said one F105 Thunderchief was lost and its pilot was missing.

Only scattered skirmishes were reported in the ground war in South Vietnam but Viet Cong guerrillas stepped up terrorism and assaults in the northern five provinces making up the 1st Corps area south of the demilitarized zone. The Communists appeared to be trying to weaken government control in the thinly held area.

Thirty-eight civilians died when two buses hit mines near Da Nang, a South Vietnamese district headquarters was heavily attacked and a U.S. Marine was killed and 14 wounded.

But the main action was in the skies over the North, where Hanoi claimed six American planes were downed Thursday and a total of 21 since Tuesday. The U.S. Command announced the loss of four planes.

With the scheduled shift in monsoon winds this month promising poor bombing weather over the North, it is evident that U.S. warplanes are trying to damage North Vietnam's supply routes so that they remain disrupted for some time. The list of Pentagon-approved targets has been gradually expanding and air commanders are being given permission for more frequent re-strikes in sensitive areas.

The stepped-up American pressure is meeting intensified barrages of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles, heavy antiaircraft fire and more frequent encounters with the elusive North Vietnamese air force, which minimizes its risks with hit-and-run harassment sweeps at American formations.

Thursday's four-minute dogfight above Haiphong began when six MIG 17s were spotted by a flight of slower Navy Skyhawks that had just dropped their bombs. One Skyhawk caught a MIG with its 20mm cannon during a harrowing head-on pass and the Navy pilot saw bits of metal flying from the enemy plane.

The Navy said the MIGs were attempting to break through to attack two propellor-driven A1 Skyraiders and a helicopter evidently on a pilot rescue mission in the Haiphong area— an indication that at least one Navy plane was downed during the day in addition to the Air Force F105 Thunderchief which was the 688th announced U.S. combat loss in North Vietnam.

Haiphong appeared the focus of Thursday's raids.

U.S. fliers are aiming to cut the city's communications with the rest of North Vietnam so that supplies will jam its limited storage areas. The four bridges leading from the port have all been cut in at least one spot. Thursday's target was the most vital of the four, the main bridge leading to Hanoi, eight-tenths of a mile from Haiphong's center.

Pilots report at least two spans of the 300-foot, three-span structure have been dropped and, in addition, 3,000-pound bombs have blown out the roadbed in the bridge's center.

Although Communist artillery shelling along the demilitarized zone has fallen off sharply in the past 10 days, an intense air campaign continued to forestall any new Red buildup.

UNICEF Coins Will Cheer Children

With Hallowe'en approaching, plans have been made for the annual Trick or Treat for UNICEF march by boys and girls representing the churches.

This year marks the 17th anniversary of the "Trick of Treat for UNICEF" program, sponsored by the Church Women United, Mrs. Harold Hill, president. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Burt Rowe, sr., and Mrs. Bernard Rice.

On Oct. 31 residents will be asked to donate treats of coins to boys and girls, who will be identified by an orange and black collection carton bearing the UNICEF symbol of a mother and child. Collection hours will be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

What does UNICEF stand for? They once were for United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, but the organization's name has been shortened to the United Nations Children's Fund. The old initials continue to be used.

UNICEF had its origin after World War II when President Truman asked former President Hoover to find out what could be done to save the lives of children in Europe. The children's fund was created by the United Nations December 11, 1946 as an emergency operation, a vast effort to rush milk and medicines, food and clothes to young war victims.

It was so successful that by 1950 UNICEF assistance could be discontinued in Europe. Delegates of underdeveloped nations, mostly in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East, insisted that UNICEF's job was not finished. In more than 100 underdeveloped countries children were living under conditions that were as bad as those in Europe after the war.

It was decided that UNICEF would continue its work as a long - range program.

Orange containers for contributions will be placed in the downtown stores and in the Midtowner Shopping Center.

Book marks will be destributed at the public library. A poster contest will be held in the grade schools.

Also available are two film strips, "Children in Asia" and "A Trip with UNICEF," which can be shown to children's groups in the schools, churches or Scout organizations. Anyone interested in obtaining them may call Mrs. Rice or Mrs. Rowe.

Campaign volunteers are Mrs. C. L. Blanton, III, Mrs. Hal F. Robertson, Mrs. Jesse Page, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Oren Dahl and Mrs. Maurice Stauffer.

Three Injured in Vehicle Collisions

Two Matthews residents were injured when their motorcycle was hit by a car on route H, one mile east of Matthews at 6:55 p.m. Thursday.

The highway patrol said the cycle, driven by Gerald Settles, 21, was attempting to make a left turn as the car, driven by Melvin Belvin, 21, Matthews, started to pass it.

Injured were Settles, right eye cut and knee and elbow scrapes, and his sister, Kathey Settles, 12, concussion and fractured skull.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where the girl is listed in fair condition today.

One man was injured when the car in which he was a passenger was struck by a pickup truck on U.S. 60 at Wyatt at 7:45 p.m. Thursday.

The highway patrol said the truck, driven by Luther Burke, 52, Van Buren, had been parked at the Wyatt junction and pulled out into the path of the car, driven by Audrey Sterling, 24, Sikeston.

Injured was Donnie Sterling, 25, Sikeston. He was treated at the Sikeston hospital for minor injuries.

Burke was charged with careless and imprudent driving while drinking.

Weekend Brings Cooler Weather

KANSAS CITY (AP)— It looks like Missouri's unseasonable fall weather is at an end.

A weather disturbance in the Rockies is posing a threat to the near 90-degree readings that the state has had.

The turn to colder is expected about Sunday. The long-range forecast says temperatures through next Wednesday are expected to average 10 to 15 degrees below normal in the east and south and 8 to 10 degrees below normal in the northwest.

Heavy rains continued in the state during the night.

Grandview, a Kansas City suburb, reported 3.50, while the city had 2.71. Sedalia reported 2.63, Warsaw 2.44, Liberty 2.10, St. Joseph 2.02, Columbia 1.30 and Springfield 1.19.

There is a chance for more showers tonight and Saturday over the state.

Highs Saturday will be generally in the 60s. Top readings in the state Thursday were 91 at Sikeston, 89 at Cape Girardeau and 88 at Springfield.

Arab Position Outlined

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— Lebanon told the United Nations today that a withdrawal of Israeli forces from occupied positions could bring peaceful conditions "guaranteeing the renunciation of the use of force and the security of all states in the region." But it ruled out recognition of Israel or negotiations with it.

"The conditions are favorable for a peaceful settlement of the present crisis," Lebanese Foreign Minister Georges Hakim said in a policy speech to the 122-nation General Assembly.

"If peace is not achieved now, war will break out sooner or later. Time is not on the side of peace in the Middle East. The United Nations, either in the Security Council or in the General Assembly, must act now."

Last Monday Hakim told an Associated Press reporter that the Arab states had decided at their recent conference at Khartoum to "choose the peaceful solution rather than one leading to war sooner or later."

"This means," Hakim said, "that if Israeli troops were withdrawn to positions occupied June 5, the Arab States would renounce the use of force and agree to the establishment of peaceful conditions in which the security and territorial integrity of all states in the region would be respected."

This was more moderate than the statements that Arab foreign ministers have been making in the assembly's policy debate.

Damage was minor and confined to the electric motor, Lee Austin Bowman, president, said.

Smouldering corn husks kept firemen working till about 10:30 a.m.

A short in a laundry dryer motor at Shuffit's Nursing Home No. 3, route three, Sikeston, at 11:30 p.m. Thursday caused smoke in the building. The fire department was called, but no fire resulted.

Mills Says Slash in Future Spending Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wants a curb on high-priced government programs in the future as well as an immediate spending cut, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills said today.

Mills, chairman of the House Wayns and Means Committee, said in a statement that is the meaning of his committee's 20-5 vote Tuesday to delay action on the tax increase measure. The committee decided to postpone action until the President and Congress reach an understanding on spending.

"It is clear that the point of the protest has been missed," the Arkansas Democrat said. "Spending cuts in this fiscal year or in 1969, welcome as they would be, are not really the central objective."

Mills spoke out a day after President Johnson, at an impromptu news conference, renewed his insistence that Congress act on his request for a 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate income taxes.

He disagreed with Congress' contention that he should first show firm plans for spending cuts.

Despite the President's plea and a federal freeze on Congress' pet public works project, Congress shows no signs of increasing taxes before spending is slashed.

Military spending has not been a target of the economy effort, but Defense Department officials put a freeze Thursday on some $3.5 billion worth of military building and civil public works programs.

Johnson insists a tax increase is needed to combat the threat of inflation, which he said could be more costly than the higher taxes themselves.

But Mills insisted on more meaningful budget cutting.

"All of us know, only too well," Mills said, "that the present budget contains programs that may have lost their justification, and that we are called upon to approve others and vote vast sums for their operation without having any information about what their current objectives are and how well they are performing them or are likely to in the future."

This year's expenditure budget could be trimmed, Mills argued, merely by slowing down disbursement under existing programs. This, though painful, would not be "really significant, because it requires no changes in the programs themselves," he said.

Mills renewed the argument he has often made that the federal government should be judging entire programs and deciding their relative importance, rather than trying to economize by trimming the budget across the board.

The administration added a new ingredient in the weeks-long test of wills between the President and Congress by suspending indefinitely some $3.5 billion worth of military building and civil public works programs.

The freeze, announced by the Defense Department, came as Johnson again laid responsibility for budget cutting on the congressional doorstep and said taxes should be raised to stifle inflation.

The public works freeze drew praise from Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, as "the kind of thing that's required."

To some congressional observers the freeze appeared an indication Johnson is beginning to yield to pressure that the take responsibility for cutting back or eliminating programs popular with hometown voters.

The stalemate over who should cut spending involves in part the determination by Congress not to be saddled with the blame for such cuts.

Byrnes cautioned, however, that the freeze could be lifted at any time since the money for such Army Engineers civil projects as flood-control dams, dikes and harbor improvements already has been appropriated.

"We'll need some assurances this isn't just window dressing," he said in an interview.

"Unless there is substantial cutting in spending programs, I don't see how we can justify a tax increase," said Mills.

Byrnes took a harder line. "The President apparently hasn't got the message. The committee and the House sent a very clear message that spending must be cut."

Byrnes said the President determines spending priorities in sending Congress the budget.

"We need a new schedule of spending priorities and he better send us one soon," he warned.

Johnson told a hastily called news conference Thursday that failure to enact his tax boost proposal would feed an inflationary spiral he said would ultimately cost taxpayers far more than higher taxes.

He cited increased interest rates on short-term Treasury bills and high home mortgage and personal loan interest rates as indications a tax hike is needed to block inflation.

Noting Congress has passed only 4 of 14 appropriations bills in the first nine months of the session, the President said the administration can't intelligently decide where to cut spending until it knows how much money Congress intends to provide.

Cotton Provisions To Be Set Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials said it's likely that Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman will announce this week provisions of the government's cotton stabilization program for 1968.

The program will recommend an increase in cotton plantings over the very low level of 8.5 million acres to be harvested this year, when acreage was held down under a program offering growers substantial payments for restricting production at a time when surpluses existed.

This year's crop has been estimated at 8.17 million bales. A crop of around 13.7 million bales may be sought next year because surpluses have been disposed of.

Aerial Strikes Continue

SAIGON (AP) - U.S. pilots are taking advantage of good weather, to get in the heaviest blows they can at two key points where Communist war material enters North Vietnam - the port of Haiphong and railroad lines just below Red China, the U.S. Command said today.

Targets reported hit Thursday included a rail bridge 10 miles from China, a bridge leading out of Haiphong and a major fuel dump near the port. The raiders left a smoke column nearly two miles high at the dump, which had been on the Pentagon's restricted list and was hit for the first time.

It was the third straight day of strikes at rail links in the narrow valleys just south of China and the second of raids on bridges in Haiphong. Other targets included two more fuel dumps in the port area and the MIG airfield at Hoa Lac.

MIG 17s came up to challenge Navy planes striking Haiphong and at least one enemy plane was reported damaged in a brief dogfight. The U.S. Command said one F105 Thunderchief was lost and its pilot was missing.

Only scattered skirmishes were reported in the ground war in South Vietnam but Viet Cong guerrillas stepped up terrorism and assaults in the northern five provinces making up the 1st Corps area south of the demilitarized zone. The Communists appeared to be trying to weaken government control in the thinly held area.

Thirty-eight civilians died when two buses hit mines near Da Nang, a South Vietnamese district headquarters was heavily attacked and a U.S. Marine was killed and 14 wounded.

But the main action was in the skies over the North, where Hanoi claimed six American planes were downed Thursday and a total of 21 since Tuesday. The U.S. Command announced the loss of four planes.

With the scheduled shift in monsoon winds this month promising poor bombing weather over the North, it is evident that U.S. warplanes are trying to damage North Vietnam's supply routes so that they remain disrupted for some time. The list of Pentagon-approved targets has been gradually expanding and air commanders are being given permission for more frequent re-strikes in sensitive areas.

The stepped-up American pressure is meeting intensified barrages of Soviet-built ground-to-air missiles, heavy antiaircraft fire and more frequent encounters with the elusive North Vietnamese air force, which minimizes its risks with hit-and-run harassment sweeps at American formations.

Thursday's four-minute dogfight above Haiphong began when six MIG 17s were spotted by a flight of slower Navy Skyhawks that had just dropped their bombs. One Skyhawk caught a MIG with its 20mm cannon during a harrowing head-on pass and the Navy pilot saw bits of metal flying from the enemy plane.

The Navy said the MIGs were attempting to break through to attack two propellor-driven A1 Skyraiders and a helicopter evidently on a pilot rescue mission in the Haiphong area— an indication that at least one Navy plane was downed during the day in addition to the Air Force F105 Thunderchief which was the 688th announced U.S. combat loss in North Vietnam.

Haiphong appeared the focus of Thursday's raids.

U.S. fliers are aiming to cut the city's communications with the rest of North Vietnam so that supplies will jam its limited storage areas. The four bridges leading from the port have all been cut in at least one spot. Thursday's target was the most vital of the four, the main bridge leading to Hanoi, eight-tenths of a mile from Haiphong's center.

Pilots report at least two spans of the 300-foot, three-span structure have been dropped and, in addition, 3,000-pound bombs have blown out the roadbed in the bridge's center.

Although Communist artillery shelling along the demilitarized zone has fallen off sharply in the past 10 days, an intense air campaign continued to forestall any new Red buildup.

UNICEF Coins Will Cheer Children

With Hallowe'en approaching, plans have been made for the annual Trick or Treat for UNICEF march by boys and girls representing the churches.

This year marks the 17th anniversary of the "Trick of Treat for UNICEF" program, sponsored by the Church Women United, Mrs. Harold Hill, president. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Burt Rowe, sr., and Mrs. Bernard Rice.

On Oct. 31 residents will be asked to donate treats of coins to boys and girls, who will be identified by an orange and black collection carton bearing the UNICEF symbol of a mother and child. Collection hours will be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

What does UNICEF stand for? They once were for United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, but the organization's name has been shortened to the United Nations Children's Fund. The old initials continue to be used.

UNICEF had its origin after World War II when President Truman asked former President Hoover to find out what could be done to save the lives of children in Europe. The children's fund was created by the United Nations December 11, 1946 as an emergency operation, a vast effort to rush milk and medicines, food and clothes to young war victims.

It was so successful that by 1950 UNICEF assistance could be discontinued in Europe. Delegates of underdeveloped nations, mostly in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East, insisted that UNICEF's job was not finished. In more than 100 underdeveloped countries children were living under conditions that were as bad as those in Europe after the war.

It was decided that UNICEF would continue its work as a long - range program.

Orange containers for contributions will be placed in the downtown stores and in the Midtowner Shopping Center.

Book marks will be destributed at the public library. A poster contest will be held in the grade schools.

Also available are two film strips, "Children in Asia" and "A Trip with UNICEF," which can be shown to children's groups in the schools, churches or Scout organizations. Anyone interested in obtaining them may call Mrs. Rice or Mrs. Rowe.

Campaign volunteers are Mrs. C. L. Blanton, III, Mrs. Hal F. Robertson, Mrs. Jesse Page, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Oren Dahl and Mrs. Maurice Stauffer.

Three Injured in Vehicle Collisions

Two Matthews residents were injured when their motorcycle was hit by a car on route H, one mile east of Matthews at 6:55 p.m. Thursday.

The highway patrol said the cycle, driven by Gerald Settles, 21, was attempting to make a left turn as the car, driven by Melvin Belvin, 21, Matthews, started to pass it.

Injured were Settles, right eye cut and knee and elbow scrapes, and his sister, Kathey Settles, 12, concussion and fractured skull.

Both were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where the girl is listed in fair condition today.

One man was injured when the car in which he was a passenger was struck by a pickup truck on U.S. 60 at Wyatt at 7:45 p.m. Thursday.

The highway patrol said the truck, driven by Luther Burke, 52, Van Buren, had been parked at the Wyatt junction and pulled out into the path of the car, driven by Audrey Sterling, 24, Sikeston.

Injured was Donnie Sterling, 25, Sikeston. He was treated at the Sikeston hospital for minor injuries.

Burke was charged with careless and imprudent driving while drinking.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

SCHOOL LUNCH COMES OF AGE

The school lunch program enacted by Congress back in 1946 has proved over the years to be a happy example of dual public interests coinciding. Borrowing on experience with a forerunner program in the 1930s, America fashioned this one to provide better nutrition for its youngsters and at the same time reduce the farmers' growing food surpluses.

The program's 21st anniversary will be observed during National School Lunch Week, proclaimed by President Johnson to begin Sunday, Oct. 8. The Agriculture Department estimates that this year 20 million youngsters are being fed at 72,000 schools, public and private. School children who can afford it pay from 20 to 50 cents for a nutritionally sound hot lunch. Costs vary because they are set locally.

Needy children are required to pay nothing, and yearly about 10 per cent of the total school lunch users fall into this category. Beginning last January free breakfasts were added on a test basis at about 500 slum schools; some 80,000 children receive a second hot meal at school. The breakfast project remains on an experimental basis. Congress appears ready to appropriate the same amount ($2 million) for it this year as last -- only one-third of what the Agirculture Department is requesting.

Even the children who pay fall short of reimbursing the $1.6 billion over-all school lunch program by 40 per cent. The loss is split between the federal government (21 per cent) and local and state (19 per cent). The federal share includes $190 million in surplus foods. These are supplemented by cash payments to the local schools for the purchase of local foods and their preparation.

THE GUARD IN REVIEW

State adjutants of the National Guard have until Friday, September 29, to inform the Department of Defense whether they are satisfied with the number of units they will receive under proposed reorganization of the Guard and Army Reserve.

THE NATIONAL GUARD has a long-standing reputation as one of the country's best politically protected organizations. State governors have consistently resisted any attempt by the U. S. Department of Defense to cut down or reorganize what are, in a sense, their private armies.

Congress in 1966 failed to complete action on a bill permanently blocking a merger -- originally proposed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1964 -- of the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard. A similar anti-merger bill was passed by the House, Feb. 20, by a whopping 325-13 roll-call vote. It has yet to clear the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Guard's State Adjutants General on Aug. 10 issued a statement opposing the revised, non-merger reorganization plan. The AGs said: "The plan would reduce Guard manpower in some states, sharply cut back the number of units in virtually every state, and take away some of the combat units that have been earmarked for the Guard under previous reorganization plans."

NATIONAL GUARD PARTICIPATION in control of this past summer's riots in city ghettos has been severely criticized. In a report released on Sept. 12, Cyrus Vance, President Johnson's special emissary in the Detroit riots, said: "Discipline was not adequate and command and control down into the ranks were poor." In Detroit federal Army commanders ordered Guardsmen to unload their rifles. They said the order was widely disobeyed. Vance recommended in his report to the President that such orders should be given in writing to every man.

This was later done in Detroit. Vance said the Guard "improved markedly in all . . . areas as they gained experience and confidence and were held to a high standard of performance."

Vance recommended improved training in riot control. In an editorial in the current issue of The National Guardsmen, Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, president of the National Guard Association, states: "First, we must use every means at our disposal to counteract any harmful impact that the criticism may have on public confidence in the Guard. Second, even more critical, the Guard AND the Army must restudy the whole problem of applying military force in civil disorders. Then, we must quickly adapt our training and our methods to the needs which Detroit and Newark have imposed on us."

VANCE and others have criticized the Guard for slack recruitment of Negroes. Negroes comprise only 1.15 per cent of the 404,966-man National Guard and 0.6 per cent of the Air Guard. These are as against 11 per cent Negroes in the national population.

Gen. Cantwell in his annual report, Sept. 18, said: "We could have provided a mass of material to show how unproductive our recruiting efforts have been among Negroes."

Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall (Ret.) recently put the Guard's present status in perspective: "The Guard will not be strengthened measurably unless put to a more rigorous training requirement, which thus far no one is demanding or preparing to finance."

ADVICE FOR SMOKERS

For those of us who haven't kicked the cigarette habit, it was interesting to read what Dr. Christian Segard of San Jose, Calif., had to say on the problem and here is his helpful advice:

"There has been a great deal written as to why cigarette smokers should quit smoking, while little or no advice has been offered to those who will continue.

"The cigarette smoker is a shallow breather. As a result there is an accumulation of not only mucus, serious fluid and cells in the dependent portion of the lungs, but also every possible material including the products of wood burning from cigarette paper and tobacco -- such as nicotine and wood tars. (No case has been made for nicotine in cancer.)

"In shallow breathing all products gravitate to the dependent portion of the lung. Their continued presence there is a deciding factor as to the lung condition.

"To overcome this situation the smoker (and of course others) needs to inhale and exhale to capacity two or three times daily. (Few but athletes do this.)

"This practice will unseat the tenacious mucus and included material. The lifting and expectoration with the deep-expiration will do much to offset oxygen starvation and increase lung and heart tone.

"Much could be written about this point but no one will do much about it anyway."

Of course, if you sometimes light the wrong end of a filtered cigarette, this is when you clear your lungs with special wheezes as the doctor suggests.

SIMPLE CREDO OF A HERO

"I feel very proud -- proud I could do my job. I've always tried to do my job. I'm proud to be able to serve."

The mild-mannered Army medic who spoke those words had just received the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Johnson in a recent ceremony on the south lawn of the White House. Before an honor guard representing the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard, he was accorded homage normally reserved for visiting heads of state.

The job that Spec. 6 Lawrence Joel was proud to do was to drag himself in agony among other wounded U.S. soldiers on a blazing Vietnam battlefield for more than 12 hours, binding up their wounds and shouting encouragement as he ignored his own excruciating pain.

And he wouldn't quit until he was ordered to.

Spec. 6 Joel is 39 years old. He is a native of Winston-Salem, N. C., where he once worked on a truck, selling firewood in the city's slums. He is currently stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. He is a Negro.

There will be those who don't understand why he did what he did. But most Americans will. They know he did it because he is a brave man and a patriot and proud.

As long as there are men like him in this country, America will stand tall and strong. Thank you, Spec. 6 Joel. We are proud that you are proud.

DISTORTED NEWS

Mayor Daley of Chicago recently directed a word of criticism toward the nation's news media that deserves serious consideration. He said, "There seems to be little hesitation in exposing to a vast public (those) splinter, frivolous, and irresponsible individuals who, in many instances represent groups so small in number as to be practically nonrepresentative. And what is even more deplorable has been the publicity given to the haters, the kooks, and the psychotics . . ." Persons who have dedicated their lives to the cause of civil rights "have never received an iota of public recognition", while others have commanded the public disturbance." Radio and television news editors cannot present a fair evaluation of the complex issue in several minutes. Therefore, added Mayor Daley, they apply the standard "Where is the action?". They show violence, conflict, opposition, excitement, drama and the charge and countercharge, all of which result in a weighing of facts that can lead to distortion and misrepresentation. Mayor Daley is to be commended for calling attention in a constructive manner to a serious problem.

NOT POOR IN LOGIC

A U. S. Senate subcommittee is investigating the government's war on poverty, including a proposal that everyone be guaranteed an income, regardless.

The subcommittee decided to call in representatives of the poor and hear what they thought about this proposal.

A disabled Kentucky miner had this to say:

"A lot of people, if they know they are going to get a certain amount of money, they are not going to work."

It will be interesting to see if proponents of the guaranteed income can come up with a rebuttal anywhere near as brief, succinct and persuasive. Not to say sensible.

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's as easy to make money today, mate, as at any time in history," boomed the confident voice of the world's highest paid Socialist.

"There is plenty of opportunity," continued Leonard J. Matchan, sitting in shirt-sleeved ease in a Fifth Avenue hotel suite as he contentedly absorbed a dry martini.

"But some can see opportunity and some can't. Some have the guts to follow up on opportunities— to have a go at it— and others don't. That's why you have bank clerks and screwballs like me."

At 56 Matchan has a carnival touch but is certainly no screwball.

In Britain as board chairman of Cope Allman International, Ltd., a gigantic holding company, he runs a firm that operates in 74 countries, has 164 subsidiaries, 15,000 employes and does an annual business in the $175-to $200-million range.

He himself now has a tidy personal income varying between $550,000 and $600,000 yearly.

"It may be hard to reconcile all this with being a Socialist," said Matchan, whose chief disappointment in life is that he once ran for Parliament on the Labor ticket and lost, "But I believe in raising the standard of living for everybody."

The son of a sewing machine repairman, he started raising his own living standard shortly after quitting school at 16 and getting a clerk's job at $2.80 a week.

At nights he studied a correspondence course in accounting and soon began helping work out the tax returns of American film figures such as Adolphe Menjou and Roland Young.

By 21 he had come to the United States, produced a film here and returned to London, "broke but wiser."

"An Englishman likes to think he knows more than anybody else," he said genially, "but I'm afraid your people were a bit too sharp for me— then."

Back in England, Matchan entered the cosmetics business and quit at 40, a multimillionaire.

"Actually, I've retired twice and couldn't stand it either time," he said. "I got fed up with doing nothing."

In 1955 he purchased as a corporate shell for about $1,200,000 a Birmingham firm that made brass bedsteads.

"The directors had brass bedstead minds," remarked Matchan crisply. "But I quickly changed that."

He began gobbling up other companies. Today he is popularly termed in Britain "the industrious industrialist" and the "merger magician."

Among the 140 products his firms turn out are lipstick containers, Aerosol bombs, and women's clothing. They also operate a number of hotels.

"We make everything from a packet of pins to a clap of thunder," is the way Matchan likes to put it.

As expansive physically as he is financially, the industrialist stands 6 feet 1½ and weighs over 250 pounds. He owns an airplane and a helicopter and a 120-acre island, flies 200,000 miles a year, has no hobby and wants none.

"The only exercise I take is two sauna baths a day," he said. "For relaxation I sometimes play chess with a hotel headwaiter.

"I don't work for work's sake but for the interests it gives me.

"I like doing things that other people can't do or back away from. It's the thrill of the chase— that's it.

"I wouldn't mind having to start all over again tomorrow. At am I saying? I may have to."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON —Last summer the American people were astounded to learn of starvation conditions among American Negroes in Mississippi. Southern doctors who had visited Mississippi testified before Sen. Joe Clark, D-Pa., regarding serious malnutrition. Charges were made that Mississippians were trying to starve Negroes out of the state so they would migrate north.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi immediately replied with a bill providing $25 million to feed hungry people in any part of the nation, regardless of the food stamp plan; also to supply medical service; and, finally, to make a nationwide survey of malnutrition.

The senate backed up the Mississippi Senator by passing his bill in the almost record time of ten days.

Last week, however, a secret cabal of Dixiecrats made plans to scuttle the Stennis bill. The public had no opportunity to know about the scuttling plans, however, because Rep. Robert Poage, the Texas Democrat who presides over the house agriculture committee, decreed that the bill be considered behind closed doors.

Executive sessions are supposed to be reserved for problems which involve the security of the nation, such as military appropriations, espionage operations by Central Intelligence etc. Starvation by no stretch of the imagination could involve national security. It does, however, involve embarrassment, especially to those who want to sabotage the feeding of hungry people.

Nevertheless, Chairman Poage insisted that the discussion be secret, and scheduled another closed-door session yesterday. He even refused to permit a committee reporter to make a transcript of the meeting. This column, however, can report some of the things which happened.

STENNIS IS SINCERE

Sen. Stennis made a sincere pitch for passage of his bill.

"There is evidence that quite a number of impoverished people in various states are not participating in the Food Stamp Program, either because they are unfamiliar with it or because they live in counties that are not signed up under the program," he said.

"My own state of Mississippi has been singled out in the press, but the truth is that Mississippi has a high proportion of people being fed under the Food Stamp Program. I'm getting tired of reading about alleged conditions in my state, but if there are people on the Delta, or anywhere else, who are going hungry, let' feed them.

"The farther you get away from urban centers, the more you are likely to find malnutrition. The evidence shows this clearly. My bill is quite simple. My bill is quite simple. It doesn't set up any new federal agency. It is designed only to feed and bring medical aid to people who need it, wherever they are located."

Stennis was vigorously supported by Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., who also urged public hearings.

"This committee has a responsibility to consider the matter in open session," Foley said. "If malnutrition isn't as serious as reports indicate, let's set the record straight on that, too. But let's do it in the open."

Chairman Poage, however, appeared to be unmoved, either by Foley's request for open sessions or by Sen. Stennis's pitch for passage of his bill.

GREEK MILITARY BANKER

While the Greek military junta was locking up ex-prime Minister Xanellopoulos for daring to criticize its takeover, an interesting Greek visitor arrived in New York and Washington. He is Constantine Thanos, Secretary General for the Greek ministry of coordination, and his mission in the USA is to wangle a loan from the export - import bank. If that fails, he plans to tap major New York or San Francisco banks.

What the U.S. bankers who will talk to Thanos probably will not know is that he is now being investigated by Columbia University on a charge of plagiarizing his doctor's dissertation from a Canadian, John A. Galbraith.

Simultaneously Thanos has been in trouble with the University of Athens for doing the same thing. Thanos produced a book for the university in remarkably short time and later it was discovered that he had translated into Greek the unpublished testimony of Prof. Benjamin Beckhart of Columbia, on the subject of money and credit, given in Washington before the committee on economic development.

As a result, Thanos was fired as a teacher from Athens University. This action was taken after a strong report against him by Exnophon Zolotas, governor of the Central Bank of Greece and the man who is credited with being the savior of the Drachma.

Despite this background, the Greek military junta appointed Thanos to wangle money out of American bankers. The export-import bank in Washington is an official arm of the U.S. government. If it lends money this will be an indication of administration support for the "Government of the Colonels." The New York bankers are reported cool toward any loans to Greece; the Bank of American in San Francisco is reported receptive.

MAKING OF A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE?

Thousand Union Chiefs Cheer 'Rocky' As He Avoids Global Debate; Promises Jobs and Prosperity at Home

New York: -- At one moment the other day the only pickets around any of the far-flung Rockefeller properties were some striking Music Hall chorus girls who persisted in suffering, though the management beseeched them to return to work at increases ranging up to 41 per cent and a $7,020 starting salary which is some $820 higher than a school teacher's first year pay.

There was no doubt that the Rockefellers were befriending the working girls -- and the working man, too. Those who doubt this fraternal liaison should have sat in on the gathering of some 1,000 cheering delegates to the New York State AFL-CIO convention in a grand ballroom not 10 minutes' jog from the picketing chorus girls.

As the nine-year governor, Nelson A. Rockefeller, strode into the ancient convention hall, the delegates cheered. When he was introduced to the men who represent 2 million members, in what is the world's largest regional labor unit, they rose and applauded -- strenuously.

When he finished what was more a seminar (with charts) in construction economics, urban problems and relief of traffic jams than a convention speech, they ganged him. Smiling, laughing, handshaking, he rushed over to the ubiquitous convention stalls and, in the presence of powerful labor leaders such as Harry Van Arsdale, leader of New York City's one million - member Central Labor Council, let himself be photographed pointing approvingly to signs proclaiming the virtues of unions such as the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

There has always been a new Nelson Rockefeller. But this was the newest. He was at his best creating his version of the new Republicanism. On the tables were mimeographed questionnaires polling the delegates on their choice for President of the U.S.: Nelson Rockefeller, Lyndon Johnson, Hubert Humphrey, Bob Kennedy, Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, George Romney, Mark Hatfield, Charles Percy, etc.

But Nelson Rockefeller ignored the poll. He ignored national issues. He ignored global politics. He talked neither of brainwashing nor of the credibility gap. For him at the moment there seemed to be no Vietnam. Not before this audience of influential, bread-and-butter labor leaders.

The governor's theme was: More. Growth and prosperity. Hundreds of thousands of jobs. New highways. An airport in each county. A highway in each sector. Millions of new cars. A multibillion dollar bond issue proposal which would cost each New Yorker just about $4 over a few years.

At one point, Rockefeller ordered the lights dimmed and had charts flashed on a screen. No Ph.D. at an advanced studies institute ever was more pedantic. No public speaker ever crowded in more statistics. But they loved it. The delegates were not unmindful of Vietnam. But jobs seemed more immediate.

One wit observed later that this really was space age jargon for a chicken in every pot -- two or three cars in every garage and a highway on which to roll.

Throughout the hall, among the "ins" with whom "Rocky" talks so frequently and privately, there seemed no doubt that the governor would be the New York Republicans' favorite son candidate at the G.O.P. nominating convention. There was no doubt among the sophisticates that Nelson Rockefeller wants the nomination. These labor men know of nationwide efforts to build methodically the same Rockefeller bread-and-butter, growth and prosperity money-wise image which he flashed from the convention dais.

Many of these thousands of labor men, the inner bedrock of mass unionism, know, for example, that the construction and building trades unions are quietly organizing for "Rocky."

Unnoticed, Peter Brennan, Chairman of the New York State Building and Construction Trades Council, is barnstorming the land for Rockefeller. Brennan, now an intimate of the governor, seeks out gatherings and official meetings of construction unions to urge them to pressure the Republican Party to send Rockefeller delegates to the convention.

This construction labor crowd is a powerful network of men and unions. They number over 3.5 million in 18 huge internationals. They contribute heavily in money and manpower to favorite candidates.

Pete Brennan would not be hitting the boondocks if the governor called him off. Rockefeller says nothing publicly and very little privately about the presidency.

To those in whom he confides, he appears to say -- play it cool, let's see how Johnson is making out at home and abroad, in war and in peace next May or so.

Meanwhile his allies, in and out If labor, are not discouraged from jockeying him into a position from which he can ship it up around the last lap.

But for the moment, the concentration is on befriending the working girl -- and union man -- and the foremost on the political racetrack can have the international issues.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

SCHOOL LUNCH COMES OF AGE

The school lunch program enacted by Congress back in 1946 has proved over the years to be a happy example of dual public interests coinciding. Borrowing on experience with a forerunner program in the 1930s, America fashioned this one to provide better nutrition for its youngsters and at the same time reduce the farmers' growing food surpluses.

The program's 21st anniversary will be observed during National School Lunch Week, proclaimed by President Johnson to begin Sunday, Oct. 8. The Agriculture Department estimates that this year 20 million youngsters are being fed at 72,000 schools, public and private. School children who can afford it pay from 20 to 50 cents for a nutritionally sound hot lunch. Costs vary because they are set locally.

Needy children are required to pay nothing, and yearly about 10 per cent of the total school lunch users fall into this category. Beginning last January free breakfasts were added on a test basis at about 500 slum schools; some 80,000 children receive a second hot meal at school. The breakfast project remains on an experimental basis. Congress appears ready to appropriate the same amount ($2 million) for it this year as last -- only one-third of what the Agirculture Department is requesting.

Even the children who pay fall short of reimbursing the $1.6 billion over-all school lunch program by 40 per cent. The loss is split between the federal government (21 per cent) and local and state (19 per cent). The federal share includes $190 million in surplus foods. These are supplemented by cash payments to the local schools for the purchase of local foods and their preparation.

THE GUARD IN REVIEW

State adjutants of the National Guard have until Friday, September 29, to inform the Department of Defense whether they are satisfied with the number of units they will receive under proposed reorganization of the Guard and Army Reserve.

THE NATIONAL GUARD has a long-standing reputation as one of the country's best politically protected organizations. State governors have consistently resisted any attempt by the U. S. Department of Defense to cut down or reorganize what are, in a sense, their private armies.

Congress in 1966 failed to complete action on a bill permanently blocking a merger -- originally proposed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in 1964 -- of the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard. A similar anti-merger bill was passed by the House, Feb. 20, by a whopping 325-13 roll-call vote. It has yet to clear the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Guard's State Adjutants General on Aug. 10 issued a statement opposing the revised, non-merger reorganization plan. The AGs said: "The plan would reduce Guard manpower in some states, sharply cut back the number of units in virtually every state, and take away some of the combat units that have been earmarked for the Guard under previous reorganization plans."

NATIONAL GUARD PARTICIPATION in control of this past summer's riots in city ghettos has been severely criticized. In a report released on Sept. 12, Cyrus Vance, President Johnson's special emissary in the Detroit riots, said: "Discipline was not adequate and command and control down into the ranks were poor." In Detroit federal Army commanders ordered Guardsmen to unload their rifles. They said the order was widely disobeyed. Vance recommended in his report to the President that such orders should be given in writing to every man.

This was later done in Detroit. Vance said the Guard "improved markedly in all . . . areas as they gained experience and confidence and were held to a high standard of performance."

Vance recommended improved training in riot control. In an editorial in the current issue of The National Guardsmen, Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, president of the National Guard Association, states: "First, we must use every means at our disposal to counteract any harmful impact that the criticism may have on public confidence in the Guard. Second, even more critical, the Guard AND the Army must restudy the whole problem of applying military force in civil disorders. Then, we must quickly adapt our training and our methods to the needs which Detroit and Newark have imposed on us."

VANCE and others have criticized the Guard for slack recruitment of Negroes. Negroes comprise only 1.15 per cent of the 404,966-man National Guard and 0.6 per cent of the Air Guard. These are as against 11 per cent Negroes in the national population.

Gen. Cantwell in his annual report, Sept. 18, said: "We could have provided a mass of material to show how unproductive our recruiting efforts have been among Negroes."

Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall (Ret.) recently put the Guard's present status in perspective: "The Guard will not be strengthened measurably unless put to a more rigorous training requirement, which thus far no one is demanding or preparing to finance."

ADVICE FOR SMOKERS

For those of us who haven't kicked the cigarette habit, it was interesting to read what Dr. Christian Segard of San Jose, Calif., had to say on the problem and here is his helpful advice:

"There has been a great deal written as to why cigarette smokers should quit smoking, while little or no advice has been offered to those who will continue.

"The cigarette smoker is a shallow breather. As a result there is an accumulation of not only mucus, serious fluid and cells in the dependent portion of the lungs, but also every possible material including the products of wood burning from cigarette paper and tobacco -- such as nicotine and wood tars. (No case has been made for nicotine in cancer.)

"In shallow breathing all products gravitate to the dependent portion of the lung. Their continued presence there is a deciding factor as to the lung condition.

"To overcome this situation the smoker (and of course others) needs to inhale and exhale to capacity two or three times daily. (Few but athletes do this.)

"This practice will unseat the tenacious mucus and included material. The lifting and expectoration with the deep-expiration will do much to offset oxygen starvation and increase lung and heart tone.

"Much could be written about this point but no one will do much about it anyway."

Of course, if you sometimes light the wrong end of a filtered cigarette, this is when you clear your lungs with special wheezes as the doctor suggests.

SIMPLE CREDO OF A HERO

"I feel very proud -- proud I could do my job. I've always tried to do my job. I'm proud to be able to serve."

The mild-mannered Army medic who spoke those words had just received the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Johnson in a recent ceremony on the south lawn of the White House. Before an honor guard representing the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and Coast Guard, he was accorded homage normally reserved for visiting heads of state.

The job that Spec. 6 Lawrence Joel was proud to do was to drag himself in agony among other wounded U.S. soldiers on a blazing Vietnam battlefield for more than 12 hours, binding up their wounds and shouting encouragement as he ignored his own excruciating pain.

And he wouldn't quit until he was ordered to.

Spec. 6 Joel is 39 years old. He is a native of Winston-Salem, N. C., where he once worked on a truck, selling firewood in the city's slums. He is currently stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C. He is a Negro.

There will be those who don't understand why he did what he did. But most Americans will. They know he did it because he is a brave man and a patriot and proud.

As long as there are men like him in this country, America will stand tall and strong.

Thank you, Spec. 6 Joel. We are proud that you are proud.

DISTORTED NEWS

Mayor Daley of Chicago recently directed a word of criticism toward the nation's news media that deserves serious consideration. He said, "There seems to be little hesitation in exposing to a vast public (those) splinter, frivolous, and irresponsible individuals who, in many instances represent groups so small in number as to be practically nonrepresentative. And what is even more deplorable has been the publicity given to the haters, the kooks, and the psychotics . . ." Persons who have dedicated their lives to the cause of civil rights "have never received an iota of public recognition", while others have commanded the public disturbance." Radio and television news editors cannot present a fair evaluation of the complex issue in several minutes. Therefore, added Mayor Daley, they apply the standard "Where is the action?". They show violence, conflict, opposition, excitement, drama and the charge and countercharge, all of which result in a weighing of facts that can lead to distortion and misrepresentation. Mayor Daley is to be commended for calling attention in a constructive manner to a serious problem.

"The directors had brass bedstead minds," remarked Matchan crisply. "But I quickly changed that."

He began gobbling up other companies. Today he is popularly termed in Britain "the industrious industrialist" and the "merger magician."

Among the 140 products his firms turn out are lipstick containers, Aerosol bombs, and women's clothing. They also operate a number of hotels.

"We make everything from a packet of pins to a clap of thunder," is the way Matchan likes to put it.

As expansive physically as he is financially, the industrialist stands 6 feet 1½ and weighs over 250 pounds. He owns an airplane and a helicopter and a 120-acre island, flies 200,000 miles a year, has no hobby and wants none.

"The only exercise I take is two sauna baths a day," he said. "For relaxation I sometimes play chess with a hotel headwaiter.

"I don't work for work's sake but for the interests it gives me.

"I like doing things that other people can't do or back away from. It's the thrill of the chase— that's it.

"I wouldn't mind having to start all over again tomorrow. What am I saying? I may have to."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON —Last summer the American people were astounded to learn of starvation conditions among American Negroes in Mississippi. Southern doctors who had visited Mississippi testified before Sen. Joe Clark, D-Pa., regarding serious malnutrition. Charges were made that Mississippians were trying to starve Negroes out of the state so they would migrate north.

Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi immediately replied with a bill providing $25 million to feed hungry people in any part of the nation, regardless of the food stamp plan; also to supply medical service; and, finally, to make a nationwide survey of malnutrition.

The senate backed up the Mississippi Senator by passing his bill in the almost record time of ten days.

Last week, however, a secret cabal of Dixiecrats made plans to scuttle the Stennis bill. The public had no opportunity to know about the scutling plans, however, because Rep. Robert Poage, the Texas Democrat who presides over the house agriculture committee, decreed that the bill be considered behind closed doors.

Executive sessions are supposed to be reserved for problems which involve the security of the nation, such as military appropriations, espionage operations by Central Intelligence etc. Starvation by no stretch of the imagination could involve national security. It does, however, involve embarrassment, especially to those who want to sabotage the feeding of hungry people.

Nevertheless, Chairman Poage insisted that the discussion be secret, and scheduled another closed-door session yesterday. He even refused to permit a committee reporter to make a transcript of the meeting. This column, however, can report some of the things which happened.

STENNIS IS SINCERE

Sen. Stennis made a sincere pitch for passage of his bill.

"There is evidence that quite a number of impoverished people in various states are not participating in the Food Stamp Program, either because they are unfamiliar with it or because they live in counties that are not signed up under the program," he said.

"My own state of Mississippi has been singled out in the press, but the truth is that Mississippi has a high proportion of people being fed under the Food Stamp Program. I'm getting tired of reading about alleged conditions in my state, but if there are people on the Delta, or anywhere else, who are going hungry, let' feed them.

"The farther you get away from urban centers, the more you are likely to find malnutrition. The evidence shows this clearly. My bill is quite simple. My bill is quite simple. It doesn't set up any new federal agency. It is designed only to feed and bring medical aid to people who need it, wherever they are located."

Stennis was vigorously supported by Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., who also urged public hearings.

"This committee has a responsibility to consider the matter in open session," Foley said. "If malnutrition isn't as serious as reports indicate, let's set the record straight on that, too. But let's do it in the open."

Chairman Poage, however, appeared to be unmoved, either by Foley's request for open sessions or by Sen. Stennis's pitch for passage of his bill.

GREEK MILITARY BANKER

While the Greek military junta was locking up ex-prime Minister Xanellopoulos for daring to criticize its takeover, an interesting Greek visitor arrived in New York and Washington. He is Constantine Thanos, Secretary General for the Greek ministry of coordination, and his mission in the USA is to wangle a loan from the export - import bank. If that fails, he plans to tap major New York or San Francisco banks.

What the U.S. bankers who will talk to Thanos probably will not know is that he is now being investigated by Columbia University on a charge of plagiarizing his doctor's dissertation from a Canadian, John A. Galbraith.

Simultaneously Thanos has been in trouble with the University of Athens for doing the same thing. Thanos produced a book for the university in remarkably short time and later it was discovered that he had translated into Greek the unpublished testimony of Prof. Benjamin Beckhart of Columbia, on the subject of money and credit, given in Washington before the committee on economic development.

As a result, Thanos was fired as a teacher from Athens University. This action was taken after a strong report against him by Exnophon Zolotas, governor of the Central Bank of Greece and the man who is credited with being the savior of the Drachma.

Despite this background, the Greek military junta appointed Thanos to wangle money out of American bankers. The export-import bank in Washington is an official arm of the U.S. government. If it lends money this will be an indication of administration support for the "Government of the Colonels." The New York bankers are reported cool toward any loans to Greece; the Bank of American in San Francisco is reported receptive.

Inside Labor

MAKING OF A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE?

Thousand Union Chiefs Cheer 'Rocky' As He Avoids Global Debate; Promises Jobs and Prosperity at Home

New York: -- At one moment the other day the only pickets around any of the far-flung Rockefeller properties were some striking Music Hall chorus girls who persisted in suffering, though the management beseeched them to return to work at increases ranging up to 41 per cent and a $7,020 starting salary which is some $820 higher than a school teacher's first year pay.

There was no doubt that the Rockefellers were befriending the working girls -- and the working man, too. Those who doubt this fraternal liaison should have sat in on the gathering of some 1,000 cheering delegates to the New York State AFL-CIO convention in a grand ballroom not 10 minutes' jog from the picketing chorus girls.

As the nine-year governor, Nelson A. Rockefeller, strode into the ancient convention hall, the delegates cheered. When he was introduced to the men who represent 2 million members, in what is the world's largest regional labor unit, they rose and applauded -- strenuously.

When he finished what was more a seminar (with charts) in construction economics, urban problems and relief of traffic jams than a convention speech, they ganged him. Smiling, laughing, handshaking, he rushed over to the ubiquitous convention stalls and, in the presence of powerful labor leaders such as Harry Van Arsdale, leader of New York City's one million - member Central Labor Council, let himself be photographed pointing approvingly to signs proclaiming the virtues of unions such as the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

There has always been a new Nelson Rockefeller. But this was the newest. He was at his best creating his version of the new Republicanism. On the tables were mimeographed questionnaires polling the delegates on their choice for President of the U.S.: Nelson Rockefeller, Lyndon Johnson, Hubert Humphrey, Bob Kennedy, Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, George Romney, Mark Hatfield, Charles Percy, etc.

But Nelson Rockefeller ignored the poll. He ignored national issues. He ignored global politics. He talked neither of brainwashing nor of the credibility gap. For him at the moment there seemed to be no Vietnam. Not before this audience of influential, bread-and-butter labor leaders.

The governor's theme was: More. Growth and prosperity. Hundreds of thousands of jobs. New highways. An airport in each county. A highway in each sector. Millions of new cars. A multibillion dollar bond issue proposal which would cost each New Yorker just about $4 over a few years.

At one point, Rockefeller ordered the lights dimmed and had charts flashed on a screen. No Ph.D. at an advanced studies institute ever was more pedantic. No public speaker ever crowded in more statistics. But they loved it. The delegates were not unmindful of Vietnam. But jobs seemed more immediate.

One wit observed later that this really was space age jargon for a chicken in every pot -- two or three cars in every garage and a highway on which to roll.

Throughout the hall, among the "ins" with whom "Rocky" talks so frequently and privately, there seemed no doubt that the governor would be the New York Republicans' favorite son candidate at the G.O.P. nominating convention. There was no doubt among the sophisticates that Nelson Rockefeller wants the nomination. These labor men know of nationwide efforts to build methodically the same Rockefeller bread-and-butter, growth and prosperity money-wise image which he flashed from the convention dais.

Many of these thousands of labor men, the inner bedrock of mass unionism, know, for example, that the construction and building trades unions are quietly organizing for "Rocky."

Unnoticed, Peter Brennan, Chairman of the New York State Building and Construction Trades Council, is barnstorming the land for Rockefeller. Brennan, now an intimate of the governor, seeks out gatherings and official meetings of construction unions to urge them to pressure the Republican Party to send Rockefeller delegates to the convention.

This construction labor crowd is a powerful network of men and unions. They number over 3.5 million in 18 huge internationals. They contribute heavily in money and manpower to favorite candidates.

Pete Brennan would not be hitting the boondocks if the governor called him off. Rockefeller says nothing publicly and very little privately about the presidency.

To those in whom he confides, he appears to say -- play it cool, let's see how Johnson is making out at home and abroad, in war and in peace next May or so.

Meanwhile his allies, in and out If labor, are not discouraged from jockeying him into a position from which he can ship it up around the last lap.

But for the moment, the concentration is on befriending the working girl -- and union man -- and the foremost on the political racetrack can have the international issues.

With all the World Series rushing. . .calling. . .making arrangements for covering. . .we almost overlooked the predictions for tonight's action. We did let it slip our minds about predicting Cape's win. . . but it turned out the way we thought.

By the way. . . we also let it slip to call the Series. . .By golly we see the Cardinals taking the glory shower. . .Wednesday in Boston. . . Gibson's the key.

Enough for that. . .as if we haven't read and heard enough about the predictions of that classic for the last month. . .now to get down to our local prognosticating.

Malden at Portageville -- Coach G. W. Dean's Green Waves have been roaring loud lately and might turn into a hurricane any time ard tonight. . .some of those signs will appear. . .The Waves will be the southern conference Champions. . .Tonight's win will encourage their desire. Malden 35, Portageville 20.

Charleston at Caruthersville -- This should prove to be one of the better games in the district this season. . .We think coach Marshall's crew has revived from their two previous outings. . . Charleston has a backer in Sikeston. . .and therefore we think it's time to rise up to the occasion with a win for an old trooper and his wife. Charleston 27, Caruthersville 14.

Blytheville at Poplar Bluff -- We almost called it on the nose last week. . .however we did get one thing right. . .John Brown made his presence felt. . .tonight will be no different. Poplar Bluff 42, Blytheville 21.

O'Fallon at Perryville-- We know little about the visitors but we'll go along with the surging Pirates. Perryville 20, O'Fallon 12.

Hayti at Chaffee -- The Indians are not as bad as some may think. . .They'll have a battle tonight but look for a visitor victory. Hayti 24, Chaffee 21.

Dexter at East Prairie -- Telle's crew will not fall from the unbeaten ranks this week. . .but wait until next. . .Have your fun tonight because the Bulldogs will put up a fight next week. No squeaker tonight. Dexter 28, East Prairie 12.

Piggott at Gideon-- We'll go along with the Arkansas 11. . . the Bulldogs surely have Steele or Illmo - Scott City on their schedule again this season. Piggott 35, Gideon 0;

The Daily Standard's prize - winning photographer, Warren Sokolis, will be at the scene of the World Series game at beautiful Busch Memorial Stadium. . .Saturday. . .Sunday . . .and Monday and hopes to prepare a picture page for the loyal next week.

As for this writer. . .we hope to enjoy the Series and return to tell you how and why rather than what. As our first edition hits the streets Monday afternoon. . .at that time two and almost all three games will be completed.

Many area fans requested tickets but it seems as if the clubs, minor league officials, press, favored groups and the politicians have grabbed up tickets. . .and none was left. . . We wonder how many area fans requested the high priced seats and failed to receive them. . .We have not heard of anyone in the area being so lucky as to get their order in. . .

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Margaret Smith, former Wimbledon and Australian women champion, plans a comeback in big time tennis, it was revealed today.

KINGSTON, Ont. (AP) — A four-goal outburst in the final eight minutes gave the Pittsburgh Penguins a 5-2 decision over the Minnesota North Stars Thursday night in a National Hockey League exhibition game.

Half-Way Point For Gridders

Sikeston and Kennett in the northern conference took a week off as other football teams in both the north and south conferences moved to the halfway point of the high school grid season tonight.

Cape Girardeau swept past Jackson 27-0 in its northern conference debut and joined Poplar Bluff and Sikeston in the unbeaten ranks of the division.

The Tigers, roaring to their fifth season triumph, pushed the Indians almost out of the conference battle, down to 1-2 in the division and 2-3 overall.

Tonight's big action centers around southern conference play at Portageville where Malden visits. This is a must victory for both squads. Portageville is 2-1 in the division standings and 3-1 overall while Malden comes into the contest with a 1-0 conference slate and 3-1 overall. Also in southern action is the divisions leader, Dexter, with a 3-0 conference record and a remarkable 4-0 overall posting. Dexter goes to East Prairie.

Other games are slated for Caruthersville where northern division's Charleston Bluejays meet in an intersectional match.

Blytheville goes to Poplar Bluff in hopes of ending the Mules, winning string at 18, Hayti goes to Chaffee and Gideon is host to Piggott, Ark., Saturday night. Northern division Perryville Pirates will be host to O'Fallon.

Four teams remain undefeated in the district, two of those will carry their slates into next week's action while two put their victory streaks on the line, Poplar Bluff and Dexter.

Cape is primed for its meeting with Poplar Bluff set for next Friday night at the Mule's home turf.

The winner will be setting in the conference driver's seat with only the Sikeston Bulldogs standing in the way of the crown.

Kickoff time for most games is 7:30 p.m. with Poplar Bluff's starting at 8 p.m.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Luman Harris, who once yielded the Baltimore baseball managing job to Billy Hitchcock, was expected to be named Hitchcock's successor as field manager of the Atlanta Braves today.

The Braves called an afternoon news conferece at the St. Louis headquarters of the World Series. Braves Vice President Paul Richards previously had said the team would name a manager during the series.

Harris, who for years has been closely associated with Richards, has been the leading candidate for the job for more than a month although Hitchcock was fired only last week.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Lonborg One-Hitter

. . Too Much Yaz. .

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg, the big men on the Boston Red Sox, are a couple of pleasant fellows who like to kid with people, even going so far as making predictions in jest.

Now their crystal ball forecasts are virtually coming true in the World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was kidding around and told someone I would hit two homers and get three hits today — but I was only kidding," Yastrzemski said Thursday after the Red Sox squared the Series at one game apiece with a 5-0 victory in Boston.

Lonborg joked about pitching a no-hitter before he took the mound for the second game.

League's Triple Crown champion, made good on his prediction, belting a pair of homers, good for four runs batted in, and then singling in the eighth.

Lonborg just missed on his prediction, losing a no-hit bid on Julian Javier's two-out double in the eighth inning. Gentleman Jim had to settle for a one-hitter, only the fourth in World Series history.

For a while, it looked as if Lonborg would match Don Larsen, who pitched a perfect game in a 2-0 victory for the New York Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956.

Yaz connected for his first Series blast by lining a low fast ball into the right field stands for a 1-0 Boston lead in the fourth.

"It was a good pitch, but I hit it just right," the slugging outfielder said. "I felt good, real sharp."

The Cardinals' scouting report apparently missed something on Yastrzemski.

With runners on first and second and one out in the seventh, southpaw Joe Hoerner was summoned from the bullpen to pitch to Boston's left swinger. Yaz promptly unloaded on a 2-2 pitch and sent a booming shot into the bleachers beyond the Boston bullpen in right center.

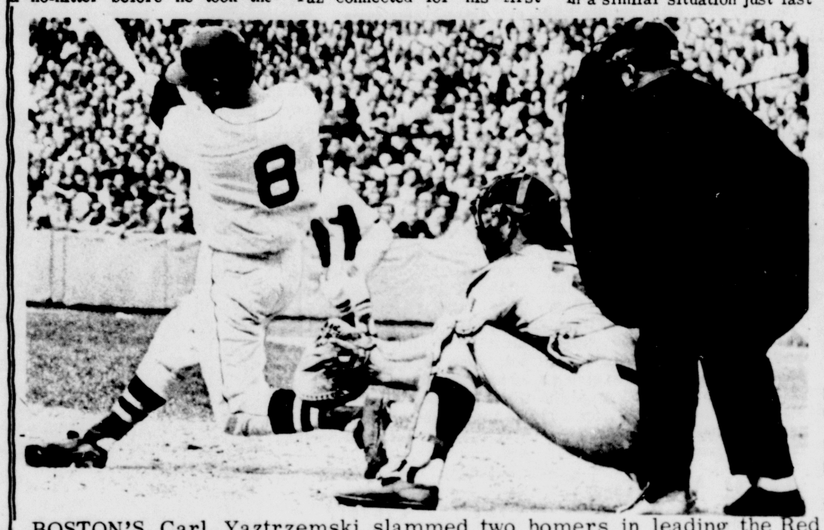
In a similar situation just last Saturday, the Minnesota Twins called on southpaw ace Jim Merrit to face Yaz in the seventh inning. The result: a three-run homer in a 6-4 victory.

Lonborg, a 24-year-old right-hander, just missed reaching the only goal that he failed to accomplish during a 22-9 regular season.

"The no-hitter is the one goal that has eluded me during this fabulous season," the lanky hurler said. "I pitched in the All-Star game, I won 20 and I pitched in the World Series. I'll get that no-hitter some day.

"I was joking about the no-hitter and going for it after we got that 5-0 lead," he said.

JIM LONBORG, pitcher



BOSTON'S Carl Yaztrzemski slammed two homers in leading the Red Sox to a 5-0 victory over the National League pennant winning St. Louis Cardinals yesterday and evened the series at 1-1. Yaz blasted a fourth inning solo and returned with a three-run clout in the seventh. The Series moves to St. Louis for games Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Indians Look For Second Win Against Bradley

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southeast Missouri will be looking for their second win this Saturday as the Braves of Bradley University invade Houck Stadium. The Indians now have a record of 1-2, after winning the season's opener against Evansville, and then dropping their next two contests to Delta State and Martin, Tenn.

Bradley broke into the win column last weekend, defeating Western Illinois 21-13, after losing their opener to Central Michigan 23-21, then coming back to tie Evansville 14-14.

The Braves will arrive with what is expected to be the best aerial attack the Indians have faced this season. Bradley has two quarterbacks with the ability to throw the ball. Larry Selinger, at 6', 210 pounds, has completed 36 of 84 passes for 429 yards. Tim Ellis, who broke into the lineup last week against Western Illinois, completed 14 of 26 aerials for 236 years.

On the receiving end, Bradley has 3 players who have caught 10 or more passes. End Dane Waitkus and halfback Jim Ulrich each have receptions totaling in excess of 150 yards.

Leading the rushing for the Braves is junior halfback Mike Dafferner, who last year totaled 206 yards.

Indian quarterback Greg Brune of Cape Girardeau has completed 32 of 83 passes for 659 yards and two touchdowns. Halfback John Diepenbrock has 13 receptions for 358 yards, while tight end Glen Gibbons has caught 9 passes for 142 yards. Junior halfback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves has carried the ball 42 times for 184 yards and an average of 4.4 yards per carry.

In a word, "pass" may describe the upcoming contest, with pass defense determining the outcome.

With all the World Series rushing. . .calling. . .making arrangements for covering. . .we almost overlooked the predictions for tonight's action. We did let it slip our minds about predicting Cape's win. . . but it turned out the way we thought.

By the way. . . we also let it slip to call the Series. . .By golly we see the Cardinals taking the glory shower. . .Wednesday in Boston. . . Gibson's the key.

Enough for that. . .as if we haven't read and heard enough about the predictions of that classic for the last month. . .now to get down to our local prognosticating.

Malden at Portageville -- Coach G. W. Dean's Green Waves have been roaring loud lately and might turn into a hurricane any time ard tonight. . .some of those signs will appear. . .The Waves will be the southern conference Champions. . .Tonight's win will encourage their desire. Malden 35, Portageville 20.

Charleston at Caruthersville -- This should prove to be one of the better games in the district this season. . .We think coach Marshall's crew has revived from their two previous outings. . . Charleston has a backer in Sikeston. . .and therefore we think it's time to rise up to the occasion with a win for an old trooper and his wife. Charleston 27, Caruthersville 14.

Blytheville at Poplar Bluff -- We almost called it on the nose last week. . .however we did get one thing right. . .John Brown made his presence felt. . .tonight will be no different. Poplar Bluff 42, Blytheville 21.

O'Fallon at Perryville-- We know little about the visitors but we'll go along with the surging Pirates. Perryville 20, O'Fallon 12.

Hayti at Chaffee -- The Indians are not as bad as some may think. . .They'll have a battle tonight but look for a visitor victory. Hayti 24, Chaffee 21.

Dexter at East Prairie -- Telle's crew will not fall from the unbeaten ranks this week. . .but wait until next. . .Have your fun tonight because the Bulldogs will put up a fight next week. No squeaker tonight. Dexter 28, East Prairie 12.

Piggott at Gideon-- We'll go along with the Arkansas ll. . . the Bulldogs surely have Steele or Illmo - Scott City on their schedule again this season. Piggott 35, Gideon 0;

The Daily Standard's prize - winning photographer, Warren Sokolis, will be at the scene of the World Series game at beautiful Busch Memorial Stadium. . .Saturday. . . Sunday . . .and Monday and hopes to prepare a picture page for the loyal next week.

As for this writer. . .we hope to enjoy the Series and return to tell you how and why rather than what. As our first edition hits the streets Monday afternoon. . .at that time two and almost all three games will be completed.

Many area fans requested tickets but it seems as if the clubs, minor league officials, press, favored groups and the politicians have grabbed up tickets. . .and none was left. . . We wonder how many area fans requested the high priced seats and failed to receive them. . .We have not heard of anyone in the area being so lucky as to get their order in. . .

Half-Way Point For Gridders

Sikeston and Kennett in the northern conference took a week off as other football teams in both the north and south conferences moved to the halfway point of the high school grid season tonight.

Cape Girardeau swept past Jackson 27-0 in its northern conference debut and joined Poplar Bluff and Sikeston in the unbeaten ranks of the division.

The Tigers, roaring to their fifth season triumph, pushed the Indians almost out of the conference battle, down to 1-2 in the division and 2-3 overall.

Tonight's big action centers around southern conference play at Portageville where Malden visits. This is a must victory for both squads. Portageville is 2-1 in the division standings and 3-1 overall while Malden comes into the contest with a 1-0 conference slate and 3-1 overall. Also in southern action is the divisions leader, Dexter, with a 3-0 conference record and a remarkable 4-0 overall posting. Dexter goes to East Prairie.

Other games are slated for Caruthersville where northern division's Charleston Bluejays meet in an intersectional match.

Blytheville goes to Poplar Bluff in hopes of ending the Mules, winning string at 18, Hayti goes to Chaffee and Gideon is host to Piggott, Ark., Saturday night. Northern division Perryville Pirates will be host to O'Fallon.

Four teams remain undefeated in the district, two of those will carry their slates into next week's action while two put their victory streaks on the line, Poplar Bluff and Dexter.

Cape is primed for its meeting with Poplar Bluff set for next Friday night at the Mule's home turf.

The winner will be setting in the conference driver's seat with only the Sikeston Bulldogs standing in the way of the crown.

Kickoff time for most games is 7:30 p.m. with Poplar Bluff's starting at 8 p.m.

Harris, who for years has been closely associated with Richards, has been the leading candidate for the job for more than a month although Hitchcock was fired only last week.

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Margaret Smith, former Wimbledon and Australian women champion, plans a comeback in big time tennis, it was revealed today.

Miss Smith, who retired last year because she was "fed up with the game and sick of travelling" will start her comeback in the Victorian Championships at Kooyong Nov. 27.

KINGSTON, Ont. (AP) — A four-goal outburst in the final eight minutes gave the Pittsburgh Penguins a 5-2 decision over the Minnesota North Stars Thursday night in a National Hockey League exhibition game.

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio Thursday fought to a final round tie at 211 in a pro tournament, played two rounds of sudden death and then agreed to split the $40,000 prize money.

Lonborg One-Hitter

. . Too Much Yaz. .

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg, the big men on the Boston Red Sox, are a couple of pleasant fellows who like to kid with people, even going so far as making predictions in jest.

Now their crystal ball forecasts are virtually coming true in the World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I was kidding around and told someone I would hit two homers and get three hits today — but I was only kidding," Yastrzemski said Thursday after the Red Sox squared the Series at one game apiece with a 5-0 victory in Boston.

Lonborg joked about pitching a no-hitter before he took the mound for the second game.

Yastrzemski, the American League's Triple Crown champion, made good on his prediction, belting a pair of homers, good for four runs batted in, and then singling in the eighth.

Lonborg just missed on his prediction, losing a no-hit bid on Julian Javier's two-out double in the eighth inning. Gentleman Jim had to settle for a one-hitter, only the fourth in World Series history.

For a while, it looked as if Lonborg would match Don Larsen, who pitched a perfect game in a 2-0 victory for the New York Yankees against the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956.

Yaz connected for his first Series blast by lining a low fast ball into the right field stands for a 1-0 Boston lead in the fourth.

"It was a good pitch, but I hit it just right," the slugging outfielder said. "I felt good, real sharp."

The Cardinals' scouting report apparently missed something on Yastrzemski.

With runners on first and second and one out in the seventh, southpaw Joe Hoerner was summoned from the bullpen to pitch to Boston's left swinger. Yaz promptly unloaded on a 2-2 pitch and sent a booming shot into the bleachers beyond the Boston bullpen in right center.

In a similar situation just last Saturday, the Minnesota Twins called on southpaw ace Jim Merrit to face Yaz in the seventh inning. The result: a three-run homer in a 6-4 victory.

Lonborg, a 24-year-old right-hander, just missed reaching the only goal that he failed to accomplish during a 22-9 regular season.

"The no-hitter is the one goal that has eluded me during this fabulous season," the lanky hurler said, "I pitched in the All-Star game, I won 20 and I pitched in the World Series. I'll get that no-hitter some day.

"I was joking about the no-hitter and going for it after we got that 5-0 lead," he said.

JIM LONBORG, pitcher

BOSTON'S Carl Yaztrzemski slammed two homers in leading the Red Sox to a 5-0 victory over the National League pennant winning St. Louis Cardinals yesterday and evened the series at 1-1. Yaz blasted a fourth inning solo and returned with a three-run clout in the seventh. The Series moves to St. Louis for games Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Indians Look For Second Win Against Bradley

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Southeast Missouri will be looking for their second win this Saturday as the Braves of Bradley University invade Houck Stadium. The Indians now have a record of 1-2, after winning the season's opener against Evansville, and then dropping their next two contests to Delta State and Martin, Tenn.

Bradley broke into the win column last weekend, defeating Western Illinois 21-13, after losing their opener to Central Michigan 23-21, then coming back to tie Evansville 14-14.

The Braves will arrive with what is expected to be the best aerial attack the Indians have faced this season. Bradley has two quarterbacks with the ability to throw the ball. Larry Selinger, at 6', 210 pounds, has completed 36 of 84 passes for 429 yards. Tim Ellis, who broke into the lineup last week against Western Illinois, completed 14 of 26 aerials for 236 years.

On the receiving end, Bradley has 3 players who have caught 10 or more passes. End Dane Waitkus and halfback Jim Ulrich each have receptions totaling in excess of 150 yards.

Leading the rushing for the Braves is junior halfback Mike Dafferner, who last year totaled 206 yards.

Indian quarterback Greg Brune of Cape Girardeau has completed 32 of 83 passes for 659 yards and two touchdowns. Halfback John Diepenbrock has 13 receptions for 358 yards, while tight end Glen Gibbons has caught 9 passes for 142 yards. Junior halfback Walt Smallwood of Webster Groves has carried the ball 42 times for 184 yards and an average of 4.4 yards per carry.

In a word, "pass" may describe the upcoming contest, with pass defense determining the outcome.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

The Rev. David J. Bowman, S.J., will speak to groups on ecumenism at any given opportunity. His faith has guided him into one of the most exciting phases of religion in the mid-Twentieth century, the ecumenical movement.

Father Bowman is the first Roman Catholic elected to the executive staff of the National Council of Churches. His work is a consequence of the Second Vatican Council's approval of Catholic participation in the ecumenical movement. He works with Protestants, Anglicans, Orthodox and Roman Catholics in the Faith and Order Department. Faith and Order proclaims the oneness of the church of Jesus Christ and the obligation of all Christian groups to manifest that unity.

"We have all experienced ecumenical living in our own neighborhoods," Father Bowman says. "Faith is a gift through the revelation of God and Christ. It cannot be made to order, it cannot be prefabricated."

Ours is not the biggest church in Sikeston. In fact as far as total membership goes we are down the list as far as twelve. But we do have a situation where the majority of the members are present on any given Sunday and where, if you come, you will not be lost in the crowd, but will be gladly received and welcomed. We will be moving into our new building soon on Hwy. 61 North. We should be glad for you to visit us there or visit us now in our present location, 110 E. Center Street.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

The Rev. David J. Bowman, S.J., will speak to groups on ecumenism at any given opportunity. His faith has guided him into one of the most exciting phases of religion in the mid-Twentieth century, the ecumenical movement.

Father Bowman is the first Roman Catholic elected to the executive staff of the National Council of Churches. His work is a consequence of the Second Vatican Council's approval of Catholic participation in the ecumenical movement. He works with Protestants, Anglicans, Orthodox and Roman Catholics in the Faith and Order Department. Faith and Order proclaims the oneness of the church of Jesus Christ and the obligation of all Christian groups to manifest that unity.

"We have all experienced ecumenical living in our own neighborhoods," Father Bowman says. "Faith is a gift through the revelation of God and Christ. It cannot be made to order, it cannot be prefabricated."

Missouri Poll

Residents Are Joiners Survey Discloses

COLUMBIA -- This is a nation of joiners. Everywhere, Americans seem to be hurrying about from one meeting to another. Clubs, guilds, lodges, auxiliaries, interest groups, organizations, associations - all are examples of the great variety of ways Americans have chosen to associate with each other. Wherever one looks, Americans are organized to promote some interest. Or so it seems.

Political theorists have argued that this propensity to join organizations is a healthy sign. Voluntary organization memberships can promote a democracy in several ways:

(1) They serve as training schools for both leaders and followers. An almost infinite number of public offices at all levels of government can be filled with experienced graduates from voluntary organization leadership positions. There they acquire the skills of effective leadership, while learning the restraints of responsible leadership. Rank-and-file members presumably will learn that their close surveillance and continued participation are needed to keep leaders from becoming selfish, and their cooperation is needed to achieve organizational goals. These are important lessons for citizenship.

(2) Voluntary organization membership protects the citizen from the state. Instead of the isolated citizen owing a singular loyalty to his all-powerful government, the citizen identifies closely with a number of other organizations and interests. Since these are competing forms of identity, the citizen feels less compelled to accept the orders of a repressive government.

(3) Voluntary associations can organize the opinions of otherwise isolated individuals and can convey them into appropriate governmental channels. Whereas the individual may have some vaguely - articulated viewpoints about governmental policy, by joining with individuals who hold roughly similar viewpoints and presenting these viewpoints to the government as a large united body, they all can become a powerful pressure on the course of governmental action.

(4) By joining different kinds of organizations, the individual soon learns that there are many competing interests in American society. If general goals are to be sought, they can be achieved only through a process of give-and-take, bargain and compromise. Thus, instead of demanding satisfaction for his intensely-held interest, the individual will begin to respect the legitimate aspirations of others.

Alexis de Tocqueville, the brilliant early nineteenth century historian, felt that the genius of American democracy could be found in these effects of "joining". He predicted that democracy would survive on the American shores so long as we continued to use voluntary organizations the way we had.

But have we done so? The sociologists, Wright and Hyman, examined this question in 1955 and found that only a small minority of American adults belonged to voluntary organizations. Their data from a national sample survey indicated that 64 per cent of all adults belonged to no organizations, 20 per cent belonged to one, nine per cent to two, four per cent to three, and three per cent to four or more organizations. The most likely "joiners" were those who lived in urban areas, had higher incomes, and higher education.

Are Missourians joiners? In June 1966, the Public Opinion Survey Unit presented its statewide sample of nearly 1,000 adults with a card describing several different types of organizations and asked: "Are you active in any of the following organizations?" ("Activity" rather than "membership" was used so as to avoid including people who were dues-paying members of an organization but who owed no particular loyalty to it.)

Table 1 below indicated the percentage of Missouri adults belonging to each type of organization:

VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATION MEMBERSHIPS OF MISSOURI ADULTS

Type of Organization	"Active" %
Church-Related Groups (e.g., ladies' guild, men's club)	31
Labor Unions (e.g., AFL-CIO, Teamsters)	15
Business and Service (e.g., Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Lions)	10
Fraternal (e.g., lodges)	10
Civic or Education-Oriented (e.g., PTA, United Fund)	6
Veterans' and Patriotic (e.g., American Legion, DAR, VFW)	6
Farm Organizations (e.g., Farm Bureau, NFO, Grange)	5
Professional (e.g., AMA bar associations)	3
Recreational (e.g., conservation clubs, boating clubs)	3
Political (e.g., Young Democrats, John Birch Society)	1

While Missourians consider themselves active in a wide variety of organizations -- with groups related to churches and one's occupation predominating -- this does not necessarily mean that all Missourians are active in voluntary organizations. Table 2 organizes the findings by the number of different types or organizations in which each individual is active.

NUMBER OF MEMBERSHIPS PER INDIVIDUAL, BY TYPE

Number of Different Types of Organizations	% "Active"
None	46
One	34
Two	14
Three	5
Four or more	1

Clearly, Missourians are far more likely to be "joiners" nowadays than were their national brethren only a decade ago. Fifty-four per cent of them claim "active" membership in one or more types of organizations. Within each type they may be active in more than one group (e.g., a member of the PTA may also be active in a local welfare group as well as a neighborhood improvement league); thus, the POSU data actually understate the number of organizations in which Missourians are presently active. The data also indicate a tendency for each individual to join more different types of groups than is the previous decade; presumably, Missourians are now exposed to more different kinds of viewpoints.

Unlike the earlier national study, Missouri urbanites are no more likely than rural residents to be "joiners". The most frequent joining is found in the smaller Missouri cities rather than in the suburbs and large metrpolises. The strongest relationship between joining and other social characteristics relates to education; almost uniformly, the higher the education, the greater the number of different types of organizations joined. Single, divorced, separated and widowed people are more likely to be isolated from organizational activity than are married people. Males are more likely to be joiners than females. Middle income people are the greatest joiners, with high income people not far behind; low income people are organizational isolates with nearly two - thirds of them failing to belong to a single organization.

Perhaps the rising levels of education and affluence in Missouri are inclining people to more activity in organizations and, if the theorists are correct, increasing the likelihood of responsible citizenship. The next Missouri Poll will examine whether joiners really are any different politically from non-joiners.

Woman Goes To Court for Yeoman Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's work is never done— especially in their efforts to get jobs customarily held by men.

Pauline Dziob, a stewardess aboard the Moore-McCormack Lines passenger vessel Argentina, is fighting for the job of yeoman, which pays much better. The blonde Roselle, N.J., woman says a union official told her yeoman's work was men's work.

"They'll let us be waitresses, stewardesses and child attendants on passenger ships— and that's it," says Miss Dziob (pronounced Jobe). She is taking on the National Maritime Union and a steamship line in her battle to be certified a yeoman.

A stewardess and dues-paying union member for 19 years, Miss Dziob who is 40, says "Well, women on land do pretty well as clerk-typists, and that's what a yeoman is. I think any woman— or man, too— who is qualified should be able to take the position."

Her charges of discrimination filed against the union and Moore-McCormack Lines are now being heard by the New York State Commission for Human Rights. She has also filed charges with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She says that last December, while serving as a stewardess on a cruise aboard Moore-McCormack's S.S. Argentina, she was promoted to yeoman to take care of a vacancy they had been unable to fill with a man.

But, she charges, although she is an experienced typist and her work was found satisfactory, she was kicked back to stewardess rating nine days later while still at sea. A stewardess' pay is $159 a month less than a yeoman's, she says.

"They replaced me with an 18-year-old boy without experience who quit two weeks later to go back to school."

Unable to get a yeoman's certificate of discharge at the cruise's end, the 5-foot-9 stewardess says she was told by a union official that "women cannot work as yeomen because it is a male position."

Jean Faust, national president of Organization for Women's New York area chapter, which is backing her, says: "Pauline Dziob may make history as the woman who proved finally that blatant discrimination based upon sex is as illegal and intolerable as discrimination based upon race or religion."

Democrats Lean To Post-Labor Day Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders reportedly favor a post-Labor Day nominating convention in 1968 to shorten the campaign in which President Johnson is expected to seek reelection.

The party's site committee, meeting here this weekend, is expected to pick a convention city from among Miami Beach, Fla., Chicago and Houston, Tex. The national committee will decide finally on the site and dates.

Johnson, once reported to favor Houston, is depicted as wishing to avoid stirring anew the slightly cooling embers of the party fight that developed between Gov. John Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., during the President's recent tour of Texas flood areas.

Many influential party leaders argue the Democrats ought to emphasize their interest in the politically doubtful Midwest by staging their show in Chicago. The availability of a convenient hall there is plaguing them.

If the Democrats go to Miami Beach, they are not expected to agree to back-to-back conventions. The Republicans open there Aug. 5.

Such an arrangement would save some convention costs and would be convenient for the news media, but political considerations may outweigh this.

Democratic leaders hope Republicans will have a knock-down battle over their choice of a nominee and split widely on their platform and Vietnam.

"We think the Republicans are going to have a donnybrook at Miami," one Democratic leader said. "We want to give them a month to stew in their juices and to let the country decide whether they are responsible enough to take over the presidency."

A 30-day delay in Democratic action could enable Johnson to be highly nonpartisan about Vietnam and other issues until actually nominated.

Retarded Boy Again Dumped By Parents

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ricky Thorne, the boy nobody wants, went back on relief rolls this week because his parents want him least of all.

Ricky, now 16, faces a world that will not focus in his impaired mind. The simple friendliness he displayed when he was found abandoned at the Miami International Airport two years ago has turned to hostility.

Ricky, who had three pennies and a half-eaten sandwich in the pocket of clothes that had the labels snipped out, was the center of a week-long search for the red-haired woman who witnesses said accompanied the boy and then vanished.

She turned out to be his mother, Maynie Thorne, who said at the time she "would do it again."

This week she and her husband, Victor Thorne, did.

"They've dumped him again," said Juvenile Court Judge Sid Weaver.

The Thornes dumped Ricky by refusing to pay for his upkeep in Miami and moving from their suburban Detroit home to a remote section of Canada where they cannot be readily reached, the judge said.

Their new home is on an isolated island called Sans Souci, French for "without care."

When Mrs. Thorne and her husband, a well-to-do tool-and-die company executive, were located in 1965 Mrs. Thorne said she brought the boy to Miami and left him "because we love him" and because he had been a burden.

By court order, Ricky was put in a county home and finally taken into a school for the retarded. His parents were not charged with child neglect because Ricky's mother agreed to submit to psychiatric treatment in Detroit and because they agreed to pay for costs of treatment.

For a time Ricky did well at the school, learning to write his name and utter the sound of "S" on command.

Then he became hostile and began assaulting other children and attendants.

The Thornes were told their son would have to be returned to his family.

The Thornes replied, "We (Dade County) had a problem and that they were very sorry, but they would not take him back," Juvenile officer Barron Shields said.

Judge Weaver said Ricky was ordered confined to a county home temporarily. That, however, causes a legal problem because Ricky's parents never resided in Florida.

Similarly, the state of Michigan has declined to accept the boy because his parents have moved to Canada. Canadian authorities likewise decline.

Alexis de Tocqueville, the brilliant early nineteenth century historian, felt that the genius of American democracy could be found in these effects of "joining". He predicted that democracy would survive on the American shores so long as we continued to use voluntary organizations the way we had.

But have we done so? The sociologists, Wright and Hyman, examined this question in 1955 and found that only a small minority of American adults belonged to voluntary organizations. Their data from a national sample survey indicated that 64 per cent of all adults belonged to no organizations, 20 per cent belonged to one, nine per cent to two, four per cent to three, and three per cent to four or more organizations. The most likely "joiners" were those who lived in urban areas, had higher incomes, and higher education.

Are Missourians joiners? In June 1966, the Public Opinion Survey Unit presented its statewide sample of nearly 1,000 adults with a card describing several different types of organizations and asked: "Are you active in any of the following organizations?" ("Activity" rather than "membership" was used so as to avoid including people who were dues-paying members of an organization but who owed no particular loyalty to it.)

Table 1 below indicated the percentage of Missouri adults belonging to each type of organization:

VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATION MEMBERSHIPS OF MISSOURI ADULTS

Political (e.g., Young Democrats, John Birch Society)	1

While Missourians consider themselves active in a wide variety of organizations -- with groups related to churches and one's occupation predominating -- this does not necessarily mean that all Missourians are active in voluntary organizations. Table 2 organizes the findings by the number of different types or organizations in which each individual is active.

NUMBER OF MEMBERSHIPS PER INDIVIDUAL, BY TYPE

Clearly, Missourians are far more likely to be "joiners" nowadays than were their national brethren only a decade ago. Fifty-four per cent of them claim "active" membership in one or more types of organizations. Within each type they may be active in more than one group (e.g., a member of the PTA may also be active in a local welfare group as well as a neighborhood improvement league); thus, the POSU data actually understate the number of organizations in which Missourians are presently active. The data also indicate a tendency for each individual to join more different types of groups than is the previous decade; presumably, Missourians are now exposed to more different kinds of viewpoints.

Middle income people are the greatest joiners, with high income people not far behind; low income people are organizational isolates with nearly two - thirds of them failing to belong to a single organization.

Perhaps the rising levels of education and affluence in Missouri are inclining people to more activity in organizations and, if the theorists are correct, increasing the likelihood of responsible citizenship. The next Missouri Poll will examine whether joiners really are any different politically from non-joiners.

Woman Goes To Court for Yeoman Job

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's work is never done— especially in their efforts to get jobs customarily held by men.

Pauline Dziob, a stewardess aboard the Moore-McCormack Lines passenger vessel Argentina, is fighting for the job of yeoman, which pays much better. The blonde Roselle, N.J., woman says a union official told her yeoman's work was men's work.

"They'll let us be waitresses, stewardesses and child attendants on passenger ships— and that's it," says Miss Dziob (pronounced Jobe). She is taking on the National Maritime Union and a steamship line in her battle to be certified a yeoman.

A stewardess and dues-paying union member for 19 years, Miss Dziob who is 40, says "Well, women on land do pretty well as clerk-typists, and that's what a yeoman is. I think any woman— or man, too— who is qualified should be able to take the position."

Her charges of discrimination filed against the union and Moore-McCormack Lines are now being heard by the New York State Commission for Human Rights. She has also filed charges with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She says that last December, while serving as a stewardess on a cruise aboard Moore-McCormack's S.S. Argentina, she was promoted to yeoman to take care of a vacancy they had been unable to fill with a man.

But, she charges, although she is an experienced typist and her work was found satisfactory, she was kicked back to stewardess rating nine days later while still at sea. A stewardess' pay is $159 a month less than a yeoman's, she says.

"They replaced me with an 18-year-old boy without experience who quit two weeks later to go back to school."

Unable to get a yeoman's certificate of discharge at the cruise's end, the 5-foot-9 stewardess says she was told by a union official that "women cannot work as yeomen because it is a male position."

Jean Faust, national president of Organization for Women's New York area chapter, which is backing her, says: "Pauline Dziob may make history as the woman who proved finally that blatant discrimination based upon sex is as illegal and intolerable as discrimination based upon race or religion."

Democrats Lean To Post-Labor Day Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders reportedly favor a post-Labor Day nominating convention in 1968 to shorten the campaign in which President Johnson is expected to seek reelection.

The party's site committee, meeting here this weekend, is expected to pick a convention city from among Miami Beach, Fla., Chicago and Houston, Tex. The national committee will decide finally on the site and dates.

Johnson, once reported to favor Houston, is depicted as wishing to avoid stirring anew the slightly cooling embers of the party fight that developed between Gov. John Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D.Tex., during the President's recent tour of Texas flood areas.

Many influential party leaders argue the Democrats ought to emphasize their interest in the politically doubtful Midwest by staging their show in Chicago. The availability of a convenient hall there is plaguing them.

If the Democrats go to Miami Beach, they are not expected to agree to back-to-back conventions. The Republicans open there Aug. 5.

Such an arrangement would save some convention costs and would be convenient for the news media, but political considerations may outweigh this.

Democratic leaders hope Republicans will have a knock-down battle over their choice of a nominee and split widely on their platform and Vietnam.

"We think the Republicans are going to have a donnybrook at Miami," one Democratic leader said. "We want to give them a month to stew in their juices and to let the country decide whether they are responsible enough to take over the presidency."

A 30-day delay in Democratic action could enable Johnson to be highly nonpartisan about Vietnam and other issues until actually nominated.

Retarded Boy Again Dumped By Parents

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ricky Thorne, the boy nobody wants, went back on relief rolls this week because his parents want him least of all.

Ricky, now 16, faces a world that will not focus in his impaired mind. The simple friendliness he displayed when he was found abandoned at the Miami International Airport two years ago has turned to hostility.

Ricky, who had three pennies and a half-eaten sandwich in the pocket of clothes that had the labels snipped out, was the center of a week-long search for the red-haired woman who witnesses said accompanied the boy and then vanished.

She turned out to be his mother, Maynie Thorne, who said at the time she "would do it again."

This week she and her husband, Victor Thorne, did.

"They've dumped him again," said Juvenile Court Judge Sid Weaver.

The Thornes dumped Ricky by refusing to pay for his upkeep in Miami and moving from their suburban Detroit home to a remote section of Canada where they cannot be readily reached, the judge said.

Their new home is on an isolated island called Sans Souci, French for "without care."

When Mrs. Thorne and her husband, a well-to-do tool-and-die company executive, were located in 1965 Mrs. Thorne said she brought the boy to Miami and left him "because we love him" and because he had been a burden.

By court order, Ricky was put in a county home and finally taken into a school for the retarded. His parents were not charged with child neglect because Ricky's mother agreed to submit to psychiatric treatment in Detroit and because they agreed to pay for costs of treatment.

For a time Ricky did well at the school, learning to write his name and utter the sound of "S" on command.

Then he became hostile and began assaulting other children and attendants.

The Thornes were told their son would have to be returned to his family.

The Thornes replied, "We (Dade County) had a problem and that they were very sorry, but they would not take him back," Juvenile officer Barron Shields said.

Judge Weaver said Ricky was ordered confined to a county home temporarily. That, however, causes a legal problem because Ricky's parents never resided in Florida.

Similarly, the state of Michigan has declined to accept the boy because his parents have moved to Canada. Canadian authorities likewise decline.

People Enjoy Newspapers In Many Parts Of World

NEWSPAPER DEMONSTRATE to the American citizen the history that is being made today throughout the world.

American people are among a select few who today in this era of the computer and space exploration can sit back and read about all the incidents that have happened around the world.

People take for granted that the news read is first-hand and is not shaded by the slightest untruth.

Most countries of the world are either too poor to afford newspapers or do not consider the newspaper very important.

Communists print the news as they want the people to interpret it; the world seen by these people must seem full of hate and evil.

Bringing the news to millions every day is no small task for any publisher.

This news is usually not over 24 hours old and it comes from all over the world. Many reporters have given their lives in troubled spots so that the United States citizen can know what the world has done while he slept.

Newspapers serve many tasks that help preserve the security of the nation. The American taxpayer knows exactly why the boys are being killed in Vietnam, but because he knows why the American boys are there, he does not complain.

An informed nation is not likely to panic at the smallest disturbance. Instead it tries to solve the problems that come up every day in this fast-moving world.

Atomic weapons that threaten the lives of every man, woman and child on the earth make true accurate news essential to the world's security.

Newspapers help expose many corrupt men in politics and big business. The scandals in the 1920's were only stopped because a few editors thought that the welfare of the people was more important than their businesses.

All these benefits the newspaper do to serve -- the next time you scan the informative pages, think of the many sacrifices made to bring the news.

Prissy Righter Is In Spotlight

Starting our series of "Student Spotlights" is Prissy Righter, recently crowned Miss Sikeston. Prissy is five feet tall and has brown hair and brown eyes.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Righter, Prissy resides at 501 Clayton Ave., with her sister and her parents.

Prissy has been very active all during her previous school years and hopes to keep these activities running strong. In her freshman year, Prissy served as the student council vice - president. She was also a candidate for freshman queen. and she was elected eighth grade queen.

Through four years of student council, Prissy has learned a great deal about school management. She is also an active member in Red Peppers, Concert Choir, Church Choir, CYF and is presently Honored Queen of Job's Daughters.

As well as being a candidate for Miss Sikeston, Prissy is also a candidate for Growler Queen and was a candidate in the Miss Midtowner contest last year.

When asked her future plans, Prissy stated that she plans to attend SEMO state college and major in secretarial work.

"We all wish hearty congratulations and good luck for a bright future to Prissy," said the staff.

Phys. Ed. Girls Practice Skills In Field Hockey

Field hockey began in girls' physical education classes about three weeks ago with drills.

Actual play began about two weeks later. Girls' physical education classes have been outside every day except when the cold weather forced them into the gym.

Red Peppers Add Spirit; Assist School, Community

SIKESTON HIGH SCHOOL has been well-known in the past years for its spirit and enthusiasm in sports.

Sikeston has long been considered as a "football town." When football season arrives, all eyes are focused on the football field.

A visitor to a home game may wonder why the spirit is so high. Many feel that it is the Red Pepper organization that keeps the sports and school spirit running high.

This year as in the past, Sikeston high school and all of Sikeston can be proud of the Bulldogs. They have worked long and hard to uphold Sikeston's honor. It is up to the Red Peppers and the students to give them the support they need.

It would be difficult to imagine Sikeston high school without the Red Peppers. They are a 39-year-old tradition of Sikeston high school.

Not only is it a cheering organization, but also provides service for the community.

The girls help needy people with clothing, food, shelter, and sell bread to help the annual March of Dimes drive.

At times the demerits and work required of a Red Pepper seems too demanding, but upon completion of high school, one will realize how much the organization really means to her.

Nobody actually realizes the importance of a cheering squad as do the boys on the team. A Bulldog football player has stated recently that, "it's the greatest feeling alive when you're on the field trying to win, and know that there is someone who wants you to win also."

So, when you attend next week's game, let's show those players that we're behind them. "Come on Red Peppers, let's hear it!"

Dean Of Rolla Offers Advice To Engineers

Advice to future engineers and scientists -- the first two "r's," "readin' and 'ritin," may be as important as the third, "'rithmetic."

That is the opinion of Dr. Stuart Johnson, new dean of the School of Engineering at the University of Missouri at Rolla, which specializes in engineering and science education.

In this case " 'ritin' " refers not to penmanship, but to the ability to communicate.

"Although many high school students regard English courses as an unnecessary evil, training in written expression and reading comprehension is essential for the future engineer or scientist," Dr. Johnson said.

Both must read and comprehend a large amount of technical material and must be able to express themselves precisely in reporting the results of their work.

GM Offers Scholarships For Students

General Motors recently announced the continuation of its scholarship plan by making available 300 scholarships to outstanding secondary school graduates for the fall of 1968 at more than 200 colleges and universities.

The awards will be made to entering freshmen and may be renewed through the normal four undergraduate years for those with satisfactory records.

General Motors established its plan in 1955 with the guidance of leading educators. Its purpose was to help bring to the force young men and women with the ability and potential for making substantial contributions in many fields to the security and progress of the United States and the world.

Since that time, General Motors has helped some 5,000 students go to college, including 1,460 currently enrolled.

Stipends range rom $200 to $2,000 per year depending on demonstrated need. There is no restriction on course of study or career. Applicants must be citizens of the United States.

GM scholarships are awarded by the 148 private and 92 public colleges and universities participating in the plan. The scholarship committees review the applicant's school records, available entrance test scores, participation in extra - curricular activities and leadership traits.

There have been eight graduating classes of GM scholars to date, numbering 3,450 scholars. Over 80 per cent graduated in the top quarter of their classes, over half of whom finished in the top five per cent.

The majority of the GM scholars continue their education at the graduate and professional levels. Many are currently following careers in such fields as teaching, engineering, science, business, law and medicine.

Interested students should see their principal or counselor for a complete listing of the participating colleges, then apply directly to the schools of their choice. No GM application is necessary.

Growler Staff Urges Seniors To Get Pictures

"Seniors must have their pictures snapped or have an appointment made for the picture by October 31," said editor Kathie Matthews.

Yearbooks may be purchased from any member of the staff for $5 before school, after school, or during the lunch periods.

Each person who purchases a Growler is entitled to vote for the king and queen of the yearbook.

Staff needs to know at a very early date about the senior pictures so the pages can be designed and made ready for the publisher.

Contest for the election of the yearbook royalty will close next month, and students are urged to make their purchases for the '68 Growler soon.

People Enjoy Newspapers In Many Parts Of World

NEWSPAPER DEMONSTRATE to the American citizen the history that is being made today throughout the world.

American people are among a select few who today in this era of the computer and space exploration can sit back and read about all the incidents that have happened around the world.

People take for granted that the news read is first-hand and is not shaded by the slightest untruth.

Most countries of the world are either too poor to afford newspapers or do not consider the newspaper very important.

Communists print the news as they want the people to interpret it; the world seen by these people must seem full of hate and evil.

Bringing the news to millions every day is no small task for any publisher.

This news is usually not over 24 hours old and it comes from all over the world. Many reporters have given their lives in troubled spots so that the United States citizen can know what the world has done while he slept.

Newspapers serve many tasks that help preserve the security of the nation. The American taxpayer knows exactly why the boys are being killed in Vietnam, but because he knows why the American boys are there, he does not complain.

An informed nation is not likely to panic at the smallest disturbance. Instead it tries to solve the problems that come up every day in this fast-moving world.

Atomic weapons that threaten the lives of every man, woman and child on the earth make true accurate news essential to the world's security.

Newspapers help expose many corrupt men in politics and big business. The scandals in the 1920's were only stopped because a few editors thought that the welfare of the people was more important than their businesses.

All these benefits the newspaper do to serve -- the next time you scan the informative pages, think of the many sacrifices made to bring the news.

Red Peppers Add Spirit; Assist School, Community

SIKESTON HIGH SCHOOL has been well-known in the past years for its spirit and enthusiasm in sports.

Sikeston has long been considered as a "football town." When football season arrives, all eyes are focused on the football field.

A visitor to a home game may wonder why the spirit is so high. Many feel that it is the Red Pepper organization that keeps the sports and school spirit running high.

This year as in the past, Sikeston high school and all of Sikeston can be proud of the Bulldogs. They have worked long and hard to uphold Sikeston's honor. It is up to the Red Peppers and the students to give them the support they need.

It would be difficult to imagine Sikeston high school without the Red Peppers. They are a 39-year-old tradition of Sikeston high school.

Not only is it a cheering organization, but also provides service for the community.

The girls help needy people with clothing, food, shelter, and sell bread to help the annual March of Dimes drive.

At times the demerits and work required of a Red Pepper seems too demanding, but upon completion of high school, one will realize how much the organization really means to her.

Nobody actually realizes the importance of a cheering squad as do the boys on the team. A Bulldog football player has stated recently that, "it's the greatest feeling alive when you're on the field trying to win, and know that there is someone who wants you to win also."

So, when you attend next week's game, let's show those players that we're behind them. "Come on Red Peppers, let's hear it!"

GM Offers Scholarships For Students

General Motors recently announced the continuation of its scholarship plan by making available 300 scholarships to outstanding secondary school graduates for the fall of 1968 at more than 200 colleges and universities.

The awards will be made to entering freshmen and may be renewed through the normal four undergraduate years for those with satisfactory records.

General Motors established its plan in 1955 with the guidance of leading educators. Its purpose was to help bring to the force young men and women with the ability and potential for making substantial contributions in many fields to the security and progress of the United States and the world.

Since that time, General Motors has helped some 5,000 students go to college, including 1,460 currently enrolled.

Stipends range rom $200 to $2,000 per year depending on demonstrated need. There is no restriction on course of study or career. Applicants must be citizens of the United States.

GM scholarships are awarded by the 148 private and 92 public colleges and universities participating in the plan. The scholarship committees review the applicant's school records, available entrance test scores, participation in extra - curricular activities and leadership traits.

There have been eight graduating classes of GM scholars to date, numbering 3,450 scholars. Over 80 per cent graduated in the top quarter of their classes, over half of whom finished in the top five per cent.

The majority of the GM scholars continue their education at the graduate and professional levels. Many are currently following careers in such fields as teaching, engineering, science, business, law and medicine.

Interested students should see their principal or counselor for a complete listing of the participating colleges, then apply directly to the schools of their choice. No GM application is necessary.

Seniors To Take Ohio Psych Test

Ohio Psychological Test will be given to Sikeston high school seniors on Wednesday morning, October 18.

This is a college aptitude test, given in many Missouri high schools.

Test is designed to measure a student's mathematical, science, social studies and language arts skills.

Wednesday is the only day when the test will be given, and students are strongly urged by the counselors not to miss the test because it is very important and difficult to make up

Regent's and Curator's scholarships to University of Missouri and Southeast Missouri State College are awarded on the basis of Ohio Pscyhological Test results.

To apply for one of the scholarships, a student has to be in the top 20 per cent of his class and score in the top 20 per cent on the Ohio Psychological Test.

Dean Of Rolla Offers Advice To Engineers

Advice to future engineers and scientists -- the first two "r's," "readin' and 'ritin," may be as important as the third, "'rithmetic."

That is the opinion of Dr. Stuart Johnson, new dean of the School of Engineering at the University of Missouri at Rolla, which specializes in engineering and science education.

In this case " 'ritin' " refers not to penmanship, but to the ability to communicate.

"Although many high school students regard English courses as an unnecessary evil, training in written expression and reading comprehension is essential for the future engineer or scientist," Dr. Johnson said.

Both must read and comprehend a large amount of technical material and must be able to express themselves precisely in reporting the results of their work.

Growler Staff Urges Seniors To Get Pictures

"Seniors must have their pictures snapped or have an appointment made for the picture by October 31," said editor Kathie Matthews.

Yearbooks may be purchased from any member of the staff for $5 before school, after school, or during the lunch periods.

Each person who purchases a Growler is entitled to vote for the king and queen of the yearbook.

Staff needs to know at a very early date about the senior pictures so the pages can be designed and made ready for the publisher.

Contest for the election of the yearbook royalty will close next month, and students are urged to make their purchases for the '68 Growler soon.

Prissy Righter Is In Spotlight

Starting our series of "Student Spotlights" is Prissy Righter, recently crowned Miss Sikeston. Prissy is five feet tall and has brown hair and brown eyes.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Righter, Prissy resides at 501 Clayton Ave., with her sister and her parents.

Prissy has been very active all during her previous school years and hopes to keep these activities running strong. In her freshman year, Prissy served as the student council vice - president. She was also a candidate for freshman queen, and she was elected eighth grade queen.

Through four years of student council, Prissy has learned a great deal about school management. She is also an active member in Red Peppers, Concert Choir, Church Choir, CYF and is presently Honored Queen of Job's Daughters.

As well as being a candidate for Miss Sikeston, Prissy is also a candidate for Growler Queen and was a candidate in the Miss Midtowner contest last year.

When asked her future plans, Prissy stated that she plans to attend SEMO state college and major in secretarial work.

"We all wish hearty congratulations and good luck for a bright future to Prissy," said the staff.

FBLA Float Wins Prize In Parade

"Education Bridges the Gap" was the theme of the Future Business Leader float. The display had the modern and ancient worlds depicted on both sides with a foot bridge which represents education connecting the two.

Cave men and crude tools were shown in contrast with the modern business world of the computer.

Members of the Future Business Leaders who helped construct the float rode in the parade through the downtown business section.

This was the first project completed by the Future Business Leaders this year.

Future Business Leaders of America of Sikeston high school won $37.50 for their float entry in the Cotton Carnival parade Saturday morning.

If You Were The Judge

To Examine Man Must Be Right Kind of Doctor

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Vivacious Vera was introduced to Dr. Lovejoy at a party. After escorting her to her home, Vera complained of a backache and the good doctor suggested that she disrobe so he could look her over. In doing so, however, Vera got the decided impression that her examiner acted more like a sight-seer than a doctor. When she discovered that he was a doctor of philosophy and not medicine, she had him charged with assault and battery.

"I was never so embarrassed in my whole life," she complained in court. "Since he didn't have an M. D., he had no right to touch me."

"I never told her I was a medical doctor," was the defense. "Nor did I force her to do anything against her own will. In fact, my examining her was her idea and not mine. Therefore, I'm not guilty."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Dr. Lovejoy because Vera jumped to the wrong conclusion?

This is how the Judged ruled: Guilty! The Judge held that Dr. Lovejoy obtained Vera's permission by leading her to believe that he was in fact a medical doctor. And, consent so obtained is no consent but is fraud upon the will of the person deceived and in the eyes of the law, is equivalent to force. (Based upon a 1938 Pa. Superior Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

If you buy a business that's owned by a corporation be careful. When you by a corporation, you also buy it's debts and any claims against it. Frequently, it's safer to just buy the assest of the corporation. (For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

Ann Landers

Salvation Army True Friend in Time of Need

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I was between buses in a strange city 350 miles from home. I turned my back in the washroom and someone stole my purse. There I was without a cent to my name, no identification and no bus ticket.

I went to the man in charge of the bus station and explained my plight. He let me use his phone to call three organizations. I could get no help from any of them. Then I phoned the Salvation Army. A friendly voice said, "You are only three blocks from us. Come on over."

The only credentials they required was that I was a human being. They gave me a hot meal, a clean bed for the night and helped me contact my family. Then they gave me money and sent me on my way.

I realized for the very first time that the Salvation Army is something more than a bunch of beggars in slightly old-fashioned uniforms --- "do-gooders" who pass tambourines on street corners and ring cow bells over a kettle at Christmas. They are people who care about people. I say God bless them. --- GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: I say God bless them, too. Over the years I have received countless letters from readers who have related similar incidents. This lionhearted organization deserves the support of all of us. They never turn away a needy person.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 18 years old and have never had a date. I am nice looking, have a good figure and make top grades in school, so it's not that I am dumb or ugly. When I tell you that I have been asked out dozens of times but am afraid to say yes, you will probably say I am batty.

Yesterday a very nice fellow from school asked if he could call me for a date. I snapped back, "Don't bother. I'm not interested."

Ann, I wanted to say yes so bad I almost died, but I just couldn't I can't afford psychiatry and my mother is unreachable. Help me. --- OLD MAID FOR SURE

Dear Sure: Go back to that boy and apoligize for your abruptness. Let him know you've changed your mind and you'd like to go out with him. And do it today. You recognize your problem and now is the time to face it.

Dear Ann: Our oldest son was killed in a car accident eight months ago. His widow was left with two small children. We always got along with her and during our mutual period of bereavement we gave her all the help we could. The minister seemed to be her greatest source of solace and we were grateful. But now she is very cool to us and spends all her time working in the church.

Last week she wrote us a letter saying she could not bring the children to our home because my husband smokes. She said she cannot take her children to her own parents' home for the same reason. Smoking is against her religion and she has become a fanatic.

It is bad enough that we miss our son. Now must we be deprived of seeing his children? Please tell us what to do.--- HEARTBROKEN GRANDPARENTS

Dear Grandparents: It must be obvious to you that your daughter -in-law has become unbalanced. Perhaps some compromise can be worked out until the poor woman get back on the track. Can you assure her that your husband will not smoke in the children's presence if she brings them to your home? Will she allow you and your husband to come to her home where, of course, he would not smoke? Enlist the help of her minister. He could be your best ally.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Looking Back

Sendoff for Six Men Entering Military Service

60 years ago
October 6, 1917

Six men left last week to enter the National Army at Fort Riley, Kans. They went to Benton on Tuesday and together with 34 other men from Scott County departed for the training camp on Wednesday. A patriotic meeting was held in Benton as a farewell to the boys. The school was closed for the day, speeches being made by prominent men, and hundreds of citizens turning out in honor of the boys. The Sikeston contingent was composed of Lester, Clyde and Rufus Reed, Layton Clayton, Arnold Terry and Bob Vickery.

Miss Ruby White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. White of Bertrand, left last week for Des Moines, Iowa, to join a special musical company of the Travers-Wick Chautauqua and Lyceum Bureau with whom she has a contract for the next four months. She will tour northern cities.

Raymond Marshall went to St. Louis Wednesday where he will enlist in the service of Uncle Sam.

If You Were The Judge

To Examine Man Must Be Right Kind of Doctor

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Vivacious Vera was introduced to Dr. Lovejoy at a party. After escorting her to her home, Vera complained of a backache and the good doctor suggested that she disrobe so he could look her over. In doing so, however, Vera got the decided impression that her examiner acted more like a sight-seer than a doctor. When she discovered that he was a doctor of philosophy and not medicine, she had him charged with assault and battery.

"I was never so embarrassed in my whole life," she complained in court. "Since he didn't have an M. D., he had no right to touch me."

"I never told her I was a medical doctor," was the defense. "Nor did I force her to do anything against her own will. In fact, my examining her was her idea and not mine. Therefore, I'm not guilty."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you jail Dr. Lovejoy because Vera jumped to the wrong conclusion?

This is how the Judged ruled: Guilty! The Judge held that Dr. Lovejoy obtained Vera's permission by leading her to believe that he was in fact a medical doctor. And, consent so obtained is no consent but is fraud upon the will of the person deceived and in the eyes of the law, is equivalent to force. (Based upon a 1938 Pa. Superior Court Decision)

Ann Landers

Salvation Army True Friend in Time of Need

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago I was between buses in a strange city 350 miles from home. I turned my back in the washroom and someone stole my purse. There I was without a cent to my name, no identification and no bus ticket.

I went to the man in charge of the bus station and explained my plight. He let me use his phone to call three organizations. I could get no help from any of them. Then I phoned the Salvation Army. A friendly voice said, "You are only three blocks from us. Come on over."

The only credentials they required was that I was a human being. They gave me a hot meal, a clean bed for the night and helped me contact my family. Then they gave me money and sent me on my way.

I realized for the very first time that the Salvation Army is something more than a bunch of beggars in slightly old-fashioned uniforms --- "do-gooders" who pass tambourines on street corners and ring cow bells over a kettle at Christmas. They are people who care about people. I say God bless them. --- GRATEFUL

Dear Grateful: I say God bless them, too. Over the years I have received countless letters from readers who have related similar incidents. This lionhearted organization deserves the support of all of us. They never turn away a needy person.

Dear Ann Landers: I am nearly 18 years old and have never had a date. I am nice looking, have a good figure and make top grades in school, so it's not that I am dumb or ugly. When I tell you that I have been asked out dozens of times but am afraid to say yes, you will probably say I am batty.

Yesterday a very nice fellow from school asked if he could call me for a date. I snapped back, "Don't bother. I'm not interested."

Ann, I wanted to say yes so bad I almost died, but I just couldn't I can't afford psychiatry and my mother is unreachable. Help me. --- OLD MAID FOR SURE

Dear Sure: Go back to that boy and apoligize for your abruptness. Let him know you've changed your mind and you'd like to go out with him. And do it today. You recognize your problem and now is the time to face it.

Dear Ann: Our oldest son was killed in a car accident eight months ago. His widow was left with two small children. We always got along with her and during our mutual period of bereavement we gave her all the help we could. The minister seemed to be her greatest source of solace and we were grateful. But now she is very cool to us and spends all her time working in the church.

Last week she wrote us a letter saying she could not bring the children to our home because my husband smokes. She said she cannot take her children to her own parents' home for the same reason. Smoking is against her religion and she has become a fanatic.

It is bad enough that we miss our son. Now must we be deprived of seeing his children? Please tell us what to do.--- HEARTBROKEN GRANDPARENTS

Dear Grandparents: It must be obvious to you that your daughter -in-law has become unbalanced. Perhaps some compromise can be worked out until the poor woman get back on the track. Can you assure her that your husband will not smoke in the children's presence if she brings them to your home? Will she allow you and your husband to come to her home, where, of course, he would not smoke? Enlist the help of her minister. He could be your best ally.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Sikeston contingent was composed of Lester, Clyde and Rufus Reed, Layton Clayton, Arnold Terry and Bob Vickery.

Girl Wounded in Gun Battle

CARUTHERSVILLE - Two men are being held in the Pemiscot County jail and a third is being sought by authorities in connection with an incident in Holland Tuesday morning in which gunshots were exchanged with police, and a seven-year old girl wounded.

Early Williams, 61, has been charged with assulting a police officer. His 16-year-old son, Early Williams Jr., is being held for the juvenile authorities.

A third man, whose identity has not been released, is being sought and will be charged with assult with a deadly weapon, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriff Tommy German, authorities in Arkansas were looking for a car with three men in it on suspicion of theft.

Steele's night officer, Johnny Goodrich, observed a car fitting the description and gave chase. He reported chasing them at high speeds into the Holland area where it stopped at a house and three subjects got out.

When he pulled in behind the car Goodrich said he saw two men out front and a third went in and brought out a gun. Goodrich called for assistance by radio and there was an exchange of gunfire between the men and authorities.

There were several children in the house and a stray bullet apparently struck seven-year-old Henrietta Williams in the shoulder. She was reported in fair condition at a Memphis hospital.

German said Early Williams Jr. got the children out of the house and gave up after the shooting had started. When the children were out of the house the two other subjects fled through a cotton field. Early Williams St. was arrested later.

Authorities from Blytheville were called on to bring tear gas to flush the subjects from the house but it had not arrived when the two men fled through the field.

The subjects apparently had a shotgun and rifle that were used in the exchange of shots.

Effort Will Be Made to Salvage Poverty Program

PORTAGEVILLE - While poverty program employes were given notice by the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation that DAEOC projects will terminate Nov. 30, efforts will be made Monday night at Portageville to salvage the program.

The DAEOC board will meet Monday night with representatives on the counsulting branch of General Electric in hopes of coming to terms on a contract to reorganize the six-county program in such a way that it will meet approval of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The regional OEO office gave notice last month that all DAEOC programs would be halted at the end of November in order to reorganize. At that time the DAEOC administration came under heavy criticism and was brought out that funds would be withheld until a suitable re-organization was carried out.

The management consultants were also the idea of OEO, who stated this might help solve the problem. Not only would the firm evaluate employees, policy and administration, they would aid in re-aligning the programs, such as the Neighborhood Service Center.

General Electric indicated that if a contract agreement is reached Monday night chances are personnel from their firm would be on the job in Portageville by the end of the week.

The notice sent to directors and coordinators of DAEOC programs read: "This is to notify all coordinators, directors and supervisors that on Nov. 30, 1967, all DAEOC programs will be closed."

The notice went on to point out that employees who have accumulated vacation coming should take it before the programs are to end or they would lose it.

The hardest hit by the DAEOC cutback are the Neighborhood Service Centers. There are 24 of them in the six-county area and are currently the largest project still under DAEOC.

Head Start in this area has been turned over to the University of Missouri for continued operations. While there will be an area Head Start director, its administration is to be supervised from Columbia with area advisors.

The termination of DAEOC programs is the result of a report made by an evaulating team which visited the area in July and found things "quite unsatisfactory."

Funds for the DAEOC administration will be continued after Nov. 30 to allow for the reorganization. Additional funds are being held in Kansas City to be released when DAEOC "has its house in order" and can effectively conduct poverty program operations.

While Kansas City indicated they felt the task could not be satisfactorally carried out before February it was agreed that they would re-instate the programs sooner if everything is in order.

26 Treated at Mental Clinic

HAYTI-A team of three doctors from the State Hospital at Farmington treated 26 patients at the first mental health clinic in Hayti Tuesday.

The new monthly clinic is the second one in the Bootheel. The staff from the Framington hospital hold a similar clinic in Kennett each month. Both are sponsored by the Southeast Missouri Mental Health Association.

Currently the clinic in Dunklin County treats an average of about 90 patients in the one day session. One of those conducting the clinic said the attendance would pick up as the public gets more acquainted with it and organizations see what they can help.

Heading the team from the hospital is Dr. Emmett F. Hoctor, director of outpatient services and former superintendent of the institutions for more than 20 years.

With him were Dr. Chand and Dr. Pirchardo as well as a nurse, Mrs. Marge Donahue, and a receptionist, Mrs. Beulah Copeland.

Women are volunteering to do much of the reception work necessary in a program such as this.

Judge Inflates Cost of Food For Four Men

PERRYVILLE -- Everybody knows the price of food is rising rapidly.

And attesting to this are four St. Louis area young men who found Tuesday that a food bill of $3.80 they had run up Monday was going to cost them $141. . .this increase in less than a 24-hour period, too.

The latter cost figure was set by Judge Walter A. Eggers in magistrate court when the young men pleaded guilty to driving away from the A and W Root Beer establishment here without paying for their $3.80 order.

The incident occurred at 6:30 Monday. In just about the time it takes to drive to Sikeston from Perryville the state highway patrol took the young men into custody at the former city, the judge said.

They were lodged overnight in a jail at Sikeston. Tuesday morning, the owner of the drive-in, Roman Dobsch, took the waitress to Sikeston and she identified the young men as the ones who failed to pay for their order.

They were returned to Perryville for hearing.

Dennis Brewer, Perry County prosecuting attorney, said the young men range in age from 20 to 25. They were identified as Allen L. Hampton, Dennis Ray Gray, Donald Larry Raymer and Edward Benny Brock.

Judge Eggers said each youth was fined $10 and court costs of $23.25, plus $2 each as restitution for a tray they threw from the car and damaged.

Couple Loses Bid to Stay in U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A Yugoslavian couple have lost their five-year battle to stay in the United States.

Gruja and Desanka Apostolovic will go to Canada.

A spokesman for the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles said Thursday night the couple's way is expected to be cleared by this weekend.

Apostolovic, 27, and his wife, 26, came to the United States from Belgrade five years ago on two-month visas. They asked in Los Angeles for six-month extensions which were granted.

In Redondo Beach, they set up housekeeping. Apostolovic took a job as a cook.

"We liked it here so much we applied for indefinite extensions," Apostolovic said.

But the indefinite extensions which they sought never came through. The extensions required the presence of relatives living here who were citizens and who would have signed for them.

On Aug. 24, the couple received a letter from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service telling them to prepare to enter some other country or they would be deported at government expense. They could take or leave their two children— Miroslav, 2, and Danica, 13 months— who were born in this country and cannot be deported.

The children were born in the United States. A government spokesman said only noncitizens can be deported.

Then George Rosenberg, chief of the Los Angeles bureau of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, called his Canadian counterpart, D. Walter Jennings.

Apostolovic had written the Calgary, Alberta, office of Canadian immigration and applied for admission. Jennings met Apostolovic and said he was "impressed."

So Rosenberg's office put a stay of execution on the deportation order until Canadian authorities can decide on the Apostolovic case.

Apostolovic must take a written examination and interview at the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles, but authorities said he will probably pass and be admitted to the Calgary area — with his children.

Caruthersville Studies City Ward Remap

CARUTHERSVILLE - The one-man one-vote edict of the upreme court has reached Caruthersville and a study is underway to reapportion the city's four council wards.

The question was brought up Monday night by Councilman Cecil Book and carried on by other members of the Council and Mayor B. F. Rogers.

Last year the Missouri supreme court ruled that the equal representation idea that applies to state and federal legislators must also be used in the setting up of city boards. Counselor Jim Ed Reeves pointed out that there has been no direct order to the city to carry out this ruling but added that it is something that should be done to avoid possible trouble.

CHARLESTON -- After its meeting with civic leaders Tuesday night, the Charleston city council decided to abandon plans for a joint building to house the city offices and county health unit, and hired Architect Howard Grant of Sikeston to design a building for city use only.

The building will be designed so it can be constrcuted in stages.

Stage one, the council decided, would be facilities to house the city manager, collector council chambers and Chamber of Commerce, plus the building would include facilities for the police department, possibly constructed to take advantage of civil defense grants - in - aid.

The notice sent to directors and coordinators of DAEOC programs read: "This is to notify all coordinators, directors and supervisors that on Nov. 30, 1967, all DAEOC programs will be closed."

The notice went on to point out that employees who have accumulated vacation coming should take it before the programs are to end or they would lose it.

The hardest hit by the DAEOC cutback are the Neighborhood Service Centers. There are 24 of them in the six-county area and are currently the largest project still under DAEOC.

Head Start in this area has been turned over to the University of Missouri for continued operations. While there will be an area Head Start director, its administration is to be supervised from Columbia with area advisors.

The termination of DAEOC programs is the result of a report made by an evaulating team which visited the area in July and found things "quite unsatisfactory."

Funds for the DAEOC administration will be continued after Nov. 30 to allow for the reorganization. Additional funds are being held in Kansas City to be released when DAEOC "has its house in order" and can effectively conduct poverty program operations.

While Kansas City indicated they felt the task could not be satisfactorally carried out before February it was agreed that they would re-instate the programs sooner if everything is in order.

26 Treated at Mental Clinic

HAYTI-A team of three doctors from the State Hospital at Farmington treated 26 patients at the first mental health clinic in Hayti Tuesday.

The new monthly clinic is the second one in the Bootheel. The staff from the Framington hospital hold a similar clinic in Kennett each month. Both are sponsored by the Southeast Missouri Mental Health Association.

Currently the clinic in Dunklin County treats an average of about 90 patients in the one day session. One of those conducting the clinic said the attendance would pick up as the public gets more acquainted with it and organizations see what they can help.

Heading the team from the hospital is Dr. Emmett F. Hoctor, director of outpatient services and former superintendent of the institutions for more than 20 years.

With him were Dr. Chand and Dr. Pirchardo as well as a nurse, Mrs. Marge Donahue, and a receptionist, Mrs. Beulah Copeland.

Women are volunteering to do much of the reception work necessary in a program such as this.

Judge Inflates Cost of Food For Four Men

PERRYVILLE -- Everybody knows the price of food is rising rapidly.

And attesting to this are four St. Louis area young men who found Tuesday that a food bill of $3.80 they had run up Monday was going to cost them $141. . .this increase in less than a 24-hour period, too.

The latter cost figure was set by Judge Walter A. Eggers in magistrate court when the young men pleaded guilty to driving away from the A and W Root Beer establishment here without paying for their $3.80 order.

The incident occurred at 6:30 Monday. In just about the time it takes to drive to Sikeston from Perryville the state highway patrol took the young men into custody at the former city, the judge said.

They were lodged overnight in a jail at Sikeston. Tuesday morning, the owner of the drive-in, Roman Dobsch, took the waitress to Sikeston and she identified the young men as the ones who failed to pay for their order.

They were returned to Perryville for hearing.

Dennis Brewer, Perry County prosecuting attorney, said the young men range in age from 20 to 25. They were identified as Allen L. Hampton, Dennis Ray Gray, Donald Larry Raymer and Edward Benny Brock.

Judge Eggers said each youth was fined $10 and court costs of $23.25, plus $2 each as restitution for a tray they threw from the car and damaged.

Couple Loses Bid to Stay in U.S.

LOS ANGELES (AP)— A Yugoslavian couple have lost their five-year battle to stay in the United States.

Gruja and Desanka Apostolovic will go to Canada.

A spokesman for the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles said Thursday night the couple's way is expected to be cleared by this weekend.

Apostolovic, 27, and his wife, 26, came to the United States from Belgrade five years ago on two-month visas. They asked in Los Angeles for six-month extensions which were granted.

In Redondo Beach, they set up housekeeping. Apostolovic took a job as a cook.

"We liked it here so much we applied for indefinite extensions," Apostolovic said.

But the indefinite extensions which they sought never came through. The extensions required the presence of relatives living here who were citizens and who would have signed for them.

On Aug. 24, the couple received a letter from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service telling them to prepare to enter some other country or they would be deported at government expense. They could take or leave their two children— Miroslav, 2, and Danica, 13 months— who were born in this country and cannot be deported.

The children were born in the United States. A government spokesman said only noncitizens can be deported.

Then George Rosenberg, chief of the Los Angeles bureau of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, called his Canadian counterpart, D. Walter Jennings.

Apostolovic had written the Calgary, Alberta, office of Canadian immigration and applied for admission. Jennings met Apostolovic and said he was "impressed."

So Rosenberg's office put a stay of execution on the deportation order until Canadian authorities can decide on the Apostolovic case.

Apostolovic must take a written examination and interview at the Canadian Consulate in Los Angeles, but authorities said he will probably pass and be admitted to the Calgary area — with his children.

Caruthersville Studies City Ward Remap

CARUTHERSVILLE - The one-man one-vote edict of the upreme court has reached Caruthersville and a study is underway to re-apportion the city's four council wards.

The question was brought up Monday night by Councilman Cecil Book and carried on by other members of the Council and Mayor B. F. Rogers.

Last year the Missouri supreme court ruled that the equal representation idea that applies to state and federal legislators must also be used in the setting up of city boards. Counselor Jim Ed Reeves pointed out that there has been no direct order to the city to carry out this ruling but added that it is something that should be done to avoid possible trouble.

Grant to Design City Building In Charleston

CHARLESTON -- After its meeting with civic leaders Tuesday night, the Charleston city council decided to abandon plans for a joint building to house the city offices and county health unit, and hired Architect Howard Grant of Sikeston to design a building for city use only.

The building will be designed so it can be constrcuted in stages.

Stage one, the council decided, would be facilities to house the city manager, collector council chambers and Chamber of Commerce, plus the building would include facilities for the police department, possibly constructed to take advantage of civil defense grants - in - aid.

The council is still considering exercising its option to purchase the house and lot north of the courthouse across the railroad tracks.
